HITCHCOCK FOR GERMAN TREATY TO END UNCERTAINTY

Nebraskan Tells Senate Ratification Is Necessary to Bring Peace, Which He Says Is Supreme Need.

TIME TO RESUME
FRIENDLY RELATIONS

He Justifies Position, as a Democrat, by Declaring Issue in Last Election Is Dead.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Re-establishment of peace with Germany as necessary for American and world rehabilitation was the fundamental reason given in the Senate today by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democratic member and former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, for favoring ratification of the peace treaty with Germany.

"The question before us now," said Senator Hitchcock, "is not a choice between the Versailles treaty and the pending treaty, but between the pending treaty and a protracted uncertainty without any treaty."

Declaring that the American electorate had "commissioned" foreign affairs to President Harding, Senator Hitchcock continued:

"I cannot bring myself to vote against the ratification of this treaty when I know that the only alternative will be to prevent a peace settlement with Germany and will leave everything in a state of uncertainty. This existing state of uncertainty is disastrous, and I, for one, shall not vote to prolong it. One of the necessary steps to end it is a peace settlement with Germany and the resumption of business relations with that great country."

"Supreme Need Is Settlement."

"The first necessary step to end this intolerable uncertainty is a peace settlement. The uncertainty was not ended by the Knox resolution; it cannot be ended in any other way than by a treaty with Germany."

"I am for ratification of this treaty because the peace settlement is the supreme need of the hour."

Senator Hitchcock said that the pending treaty protected American interests as much as the Versailles covenant and that it would not change the American attitude toward the League of Nations.

"After this treaty is ratified," he declared, "we can enter the league just as easily as we can now, and this treaty does not cause the slightest obstacle against such action."

"I have been asked sometimes," Senator Hitchcock continued, "how I, as a Democrat, could vote for a separate peace with Germany when the Democratic platform of last year declared against a separate peace with Germany. The answer is that that was one of the issues of the last campaign and was settled by the last election. It was settled against the Democrats and it will never be an issue again in a campaign. It was a part of our struggle for the ratification of the Versailles treaty and we lost. We cannot revive the Versailles treaty by defeating this treaty; all we can do will be to prolong a condition of doubt and uncertainty in our relations with Germany."

The Senator contended that it was "high time" for the United States to resume friendly relations with the German people and he urged that the United States appoint a member on the Allied Reparations Commission.

An amendment by Senator Reed was rejected, 69 to 5. It was declared that the United States, if it should not enter the Reparations Commission, should be a non-participating observer with Germany. After the vote Senator Reed said it was apparent that it would be useless to offer further amendments.

PRICE THREE CENTS

GERMAN MARK
HAMMERED DOWN TO HALF A CENT

Rush to Unload Them at Any Price Marks Trading on the Bourse.

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT.
(Copyright.)

(Special Wireless Dispatch to the Post-Dispatch.)
BERLIN, Oct. 18.—The mark was smashed to nearly 200 to the dollar yesterday, the Bourse closing at 190, after having reached 185. The whole day was a rush to unload marks at any price.

Today the closing quotation for marks was 173 to the dollar. The Berlin exchange is lower than outside Germany because confidence in the mark within the country is broken; otherwise there is no reason for such a precipitous drop. The trouble has been that in the struggle to convince the world that an undivided Upper Silesia was necessary to a solvent Germany, the Government propagandized its own people to such an extent that they believe that now a section of the province has been lost, their best move is to save what they can from what they think will be a complete loss. The result is the mad rush to get rid of marks.

The situation is so hectic that there is talk that the Government will be forced to put into effect an old law restricting the purchase of foreign exchange. Several large banks have been buying foreign exchange for the Government at stipulated prices, and now that the bottom has dropped out of the mark they are practically ruined. The Reichsbank itself is in a serious predicament. Usually on a falling market it has been able to uphold the mark, but this time it is too great for even its resources. Simultaneously with the fall in the mark has been the rise in industrial stocks, some of them gaining as much as 400 per cent in a single hour on the Bourse.

$10,000 TO BE NEEDED FOR RECEPTION OF MARSHAL FOCH

Committee Named to Raise Money—Plan for Review of Sixth Infantry Approved.

At a conference today in the Mayor's office, where about 75 St. Louisans discussed plans for entertaining Marshal Foch on his visit to St. Louis, Nov. 3, it was stated that about $10,000 would be needed for the event.

The American Legion, at whose invitation the Marshal is coming to this country, has stipulated that each city desiring to entertain the visitor shall donate $500 to the expenses incurred by the Legion. There are to be about 150 persons in the Marshal's party.

It was suggested at the meeting that about $500 additional would be needed to entertain the Marshal while he is in the city, and a Finance Committee to arrange for raising $10,000 was selected, with John G. Lonsdale as chairman.

A suggestion by Col. John H. Parker, commander of Jefferson Barracks, to have Marshal Foch and Gen. Pershing review the Sixth United States Infantry, which will complete its march from Columbus, S. C., to St. Louis, Nov. 2, met with approval. Col. Parker said the military contingent was on march of approximately 900 miles, and that it could camp in Forest Park if it were decided to hold a review, before going to its new station at Jefferson Barracks.

The Executive Committee will meet tomorrow at the Chamber of Commerce to perfect reception plans.

FORMER BUSBOY
SUED OVER TRADE OF STOCK FOR LOTS

J. C. Jannopoulos Alleges Oil Shares Received From Former Employee Were Not Up to Expectations.

BOTH TESTIFY IN TRIAL AT CLAYTON

Defendant, Now Restaurant Owner, Says Plaintiff Was Satisfied After Look at Oil Wells.

When John C. Jannopoulos, former owner of Delmar Garden, sold three lots March 15, 1920, to George Georges, former $5-a-week busboy at the garden and now president of the Standard Catering Co., operating several cafeterias in the city, he listened to Georges' persuasion and accepted $750 shares of the United Drilling and Development Co. in lieu of the $40,000 cash which had been agreed upon. The stock has turned out to be less valuable than Jannopoulos expected, and he is trying to have the St. Louis County Circuit Court annul the transaction and restore his lots to him. The case is on trial before Judge McElhinney.

Jannopoulos, testifying yesterday, said Georges told him that the stock was worth $20 a share and the company was capitalized at $1,000,000, with $500,000 paid, and was producing 4500 barrels of oil a day, which was selling at $2.75 a barrel.

Had Investigation Made.
On April 20, he said, he received a report from the company which showed that it had more than $117,000 cash in bank and $65,000 laid by to pay Federal taxes. He sent an auditor to Wichita Falls, Tex., to investigate. He testified that the report he received was that the company had only $17,000 in bank and nothing laid by for Federal taxes.

Charles W. de Lary, real estate agent, testified that he was present during most of the negotiations and corroborated Jannopoulos. He said that Georges told Jannopoulos that the company would pay a dividend of 25 per cent in about a month, that regular dividends of $5 to $10 a month were paid on the stock, which was very much more than the dividends actually received.

Defendant Tells of Dividends.
Georges testified that when he offered Jannopoulos the stock he offered $10,000 for it. Jannopoulos offered $7000. He came down and Jannopoulos came up until they met at $7500. He said it did pay a 25 per cent dividend the next month and 5 per cent a month until December, when it paid 10 per cent.

In April he and Jannopoulos and others went to Texas in a private car and looked at the oil wells and on the way back some of the stockholders were trying to buy more stock at $5 and he told Jannopoulos it was his chance to sell the stock and make some money, but Jannopoulos said he was going to keep what he had and buy more and did later buy from Georges 833 shares at $4.

Georges said the actual cost to him of the stock he turned over to Jannopoulos was $25,000 to $26,000, and the three lots were worth $27,000 or $28,000.

ANNOUNCES METHOD TO ISOLATE THE BACTERIA OF SMALLPOX

By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 18.—Dr. Arturo Arria, chief bacteriologist of the Chilean Institute of Hygiene, announced today that he had succeeded in discovering a method of isolating the bacteria of smallpox. Dr. Arria claims his discovery will permit the combating of smallpox by direct injection instead of through preventive vaccination.

LLOYD GEORGE HOPES TO COME TO WASHINGTON

Premier Expresses Desire to Attend Conference in Commons—Balfour and Lee Delegates.

FOCH TO BE PRESENT
AS MILITARY ADVISER

Marshal to Attend as Head of Interallied Commission; Gompers' Advisory Body Meets.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Lloyd George, the Prime Minister, stated in the House of Commons upon the resumption of that body today, that he hoped to go to the Washington conference on the limitation of armaments and Far Eastern problems as soon as the parliamentary and general situation rendered it possible. The other members of the British empire delegation, the Premier said, would be A. J. Balfour and Lord Lee of Fareham, First Lord of the Admiralty. Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador at Washington, would act as a delegate, Lloyd George said. The Premier also said that the dominions' said the Premier will be represented as follows: Canada, Sir Robert L. Borden; Australia, George Foster Pearce; New Zealand, Sir John Salmond; India, Zrinavasa Zastri; South Africa, by representatives of the British Government.

The senior British naval expert, the Lord Cavan, who would be the Admiral Earl Beatty, commander of the Grand Fleet, who would be succeeded in due course by Admiral Chadwick.

Lord Cavan, in charge of British army operations in Italy in the last year of the war, would be the principal military expert, and Air Marshal Higgins would be the aviation expert, the Premier said. While the Premier's delegation would be Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary of the Cabinet since 1919.

Paris, Oct. 18.—Marshal Foch's relation to the conference on limitation of armaments in Washington will be that of President of the Interallied Military Commission, which is the successor of the Interallied Military Council. This commission still maintains a staff and offices at Versailles, and is invariably consulted by the Supreme Allied Council when military questions come before it.

The Marshal thus will be, in theory and fact, military adviser to all the European allies taking part in the conference, these nations being Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium. He will also, by a loose construction, still be adviser for the American forces in Germany, because they are a part of the army of occupation under the Versailles treaty.

PRESIDENT EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE IN OUTLOOK FOR ARMAMENT LIMITATION

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Belief that the British and American representatives at the armament conference will work together with the other nations to reduce "the burden of armaments through diminishing possible causes of war" was expressed by President Harding today in a cablegram to King George of England.

The city, for economical reasons, has closed the rock quarry at the workhouse, enabling Spurr Morgan to dispense with the services of 10 guards, a matron and two other employees, who were paid $100 a month each, thereby reducing the city's payroll $1300 a month.

Keytesville, Mo., Man Tells of Deaths of His Two Sons—One Died After Eating Greens.

CONVERSATION WITH WOMAN RECALLED

Defendant Told Him There Must Have Been Poison in the Food, He Tells Jury in Murder Trial.

By the Associated Press.
TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Oct. 18.—Alfonso D. Dooley of Keytesville, Mo., once the father-in-law of Mrs. Lydia Meyer Southard, testified in Mrs. Southard's trial today regarding circumstances of the deaths within 60 days of two of his sons, Robert and Edward Dooley. Robert Dooley was Mrs. Southard's first husband, and testimony regarding his death was introduced by the State as part of its case to convict Mrs. Southard of poisoning her fourth husband, Edward Meyer.

Dooley told of many conversations with the defendant at the time of each son's funeral. Sardines and fresh milk, he testified, the defendant told him, constituted the combination which killed Edward, in which view Robert was very fond, were mentioned by the defendant as likely causes of the death of the latter two months later. Tryphoid was supposed by the attending physician to have been the cause of the illness early in the case, but before his death the doctor didn't know what was the matter with Robert, the witness testified.

At the time of Robert's funeral, October, 1915, Dooley stated on the witness stand, Mrs. Southard said to him that Robert "ate some greens and got his dose right there."

McHaffie's Death Described to Jury.
White of face but otherwise apparently unmoved, Mrs. Southard sat yesterday in District Court and listened to evidence by old friends and neighbors tending to connect her with the death of still another husband.

Under the ruling of the court which permits the introduction of testimony laying bare her entire marital history and the delving into the circumstances of the death of three husbands prior to her marriage to Meyer, the defendant is forced to listen to accounts of intimacies of former years, in the retelling of which she is obliged to relive the facts of deep significance in the light of evidence adduced yesterday.

Burke of Pennsylvania Then Adds 'Dirty Dog' to Epithets in Clash With Blanton of Texas.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The House was thrown into an uproar today during heated debate on the railroad situation when Representative Burke, Republican, Pennsylvania, a former railroad man, called Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, who had just concluded a bitter attack on the railroad brotherhood, a "damned liar."

Burke charged that Blanton during his remarks had made false statements. The Texas member leaped to his feet, and denying he had stated a falsehood, shouted:

GEN. WRANGLER'S FORTUNE LOST WHEN
YACHT IS SUNK

His Followers Believe Collision With British Ship Was Result of Bolshevik Plot.

By the Associated Press.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—Gen. Baron Wrangle's entire personal fortune, his wife's jewels, valued at 40,000 francs, and important documents of the Crimean Government were lost on Saturday when the yacht Lucullus, on which the head of the former anti-Bolshevik Government in South Russia lived, was sunk by the British steamer Adria. In addition there were lost valued mementos presented to Gen. Wrangle by the late Emperor Nicholas.

Investigation has proved the accident was due to a swift current, and the inability of a pilot to control the Adria.

The Lucullus rested in 70 feet of water, and it is believed divers may be able to recover part of the treasure. Russians here advance the theory that the sinking of the boat was the result of a plot by the Bolsheviks. They charge the pilot was bribed, but this accusation is not supported in other circles.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—All the descendants of James Stillman, father of the banker, are made potential principals in the son's divorce suit by virtue of an order signed last night by Supreme Court Justice Seeger in Newburgh. This order, the result of the latest action of Mrs. Stillman's forces, places in the roll of those who may desire to question Guy Stillman's legitimacy, and interest in a $27,000,000 estate, the banker's two sisters, Mrs. Percy and Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, and his brothers, Charles Chauncey and Dr. Ernest G. Stillman.

The order is a precautionary measure taken to insure against future quibbling on Guy's part as to the present action results in his favor.

BROTHERHOOD HEADS CALL OFF CONFER-ENCES IN CLEVELAND

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—A scheduled meeting here today of executives of the "Big Five" transportation brotherhoods was canceled this morning when the five executives were requested by the Railroad Labor Board to meet with the board in Chicago Thursday morning. Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers announced.

Early today President Lee of the trainmen issued a statement in which he asserted that "the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen very reluctantly takes the position that it cannot longer agree to give service unless there is assurance that there will be no further wage reductions, nor attempt to eliminate working rules that have been secured through many years of collective bargaining and which represent only a fair remuneration for extra service given."

Lee said: "The men have been asked to accept what is an inadequate living wage. They know the railways are taking unfair advantage of business depression to force them to accept unfair wages and service conditions. To state the matter briefly, they believe that the companies are going to continue their aggressive warfare against them until they force the men to strike. Therefore, they must reluctantly decide to accept the challenge now."

Association of Presidents Getting Ready Request for 10 Per Cent Reduction—They Cite Reductions in Rates Already Made.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Telegrams summoning the chiefs of the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen's union to a conference with the United States Railroad Labor Board, in an endeavor to forestall an actual walkout on the nation's railroads, were dispatched to the labor chiefs today.

The conference was called for 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Oct. 20, at the Labor Board headquarters here.

No outline of what the conference will discuss could be obtained, but it was said that new proposals would be presented to the labor men in an effort to prevent an actual cessation of work on the railroads.

Ben Hooper, public member of the Labor Board, returned from Washington at 4 p. m., and immediately went into executive session with the railroad and labor members of the board.

Chairman R. M. Barton and G. W. Hanger, the other members of the public group, will not arrive until tonight.

The impression was given in administration quarters today that a freight rate reduction was under consideration. There was no statement to indicate how soon a decision on the question might be reached, but high administration officials vouchsafed the information that an announcement concerning the rate adjustment might come within a few days.

It was made plain that the consideration being given to the rate question was independent of the present labor wage tangle and the threatened walkout of the railroad employees.

Ground for the assumption that the rate question had been discussed between the President and the public group of the Railroad Labor Board yesterday was given in several quarters. But official silence was maintained throughout the Government as to the nature of the discussion and as to whether a rate adjustment would follow.

President Hears From Secretary of Labor, Summoned From the West, Views of the Railroad Strike Situation, From Standpoint of His Department.

EXECUTIVE PRESENTS
ANALYSIS TO CABINET

Action of Labor Board in Summoning Union Heads Looked On as Step to Determine Whether Board Has Been a Success.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The first move here today bearing on the rail strike situation was a conference at the White House between the President and Secretary Davis, who had been summoned to Washington from the Middle West. The Secretary, who spent most of yesterday surveying the situation from the Labor Department standpoint, is understood to have laid his views before Mr. Harding.

The President laid before the Cabinet meeting an analysis of the situation, as depicted in reports from Attorney-General Daugherty and Postmaster-General Hays.

The Postoffice Department plans to meet any eventuality. No action is contemplated by the department, however, is said, unless interference with the mails develops as a result of the strike.

The action of the Railroad Labor Board in summoning railroad union chiefs to Chicago for conference was described, in high official circles, today as a first step to determine whether the Railroad Board is to be regarded as an efficient Government agency or a failure.

The impression was given in administration quarters today that a freight rate reduction was under consideration. There was no statement to indicate how soon a decision on the question might be reached, but high administration officials vouchsafed the information that an announcement concerning the rate adjustment might come within a few days.

It was made plain that the consideration being given to the rate question was independent of the present labor wage tangle and the threatened walkout of the railroad employees.

Ground for the assumption that the rate question had been discussed between the President and the public group of the Railroad Labor Board yesterday was given in several quarters. But official silence was maintained throughout the Government as to the nature of the discussion and as to whether a rate adjustment would follow.

Enforcement agents, after receiving complaints about the traffic which seemed to be going on at Meyer's garage, found a gallon jar of whisky there. Meyer denied that it was his. He said he had rented the garage two nights before and he supposed the renter left the whisky there.

This was the first of 50 Volstead cases docketed in the court, which are to be tried as rapidly as possible.

U. R. SUBMITS THREE ESTIMATES FOR VALUATION

HEARING TO FIX BASIS FOR FARES

Public Service Commission to Decide Whether Present Rate Will Continue, Be Increased or Reduced.

The United Railways, in opening a hearing at the city hall before the State Public Service Commission today that is to end in the commission's fixing a valuation for the railway's property which is to be the basis of fare-fixing, submitted its own estimate of what its property is worth, as follows:

If constructed at prices prevailing on Jan. 1, 1920, $85,573,196, including depreciation.

If constructed at prices prevailing on June 30, 1921, $82,292,727, including depreciation.

If constructed at average prices for the five years between June 30, 1916, and June 30, 1921, $70,291,102, including depreciation.

C. E. Harrop, chief engineer for the commission, on last Feb. 10, submitted two physical appraisements of the property as follows: One at average prices for the 13 years between 1908 and 1918, $47,254,355, and that cost depreciated to represent the physical condition of the property, $24,781,581.

City Counselor Caulfield, in a statement to the commission, said the city would contend that the present value of all United Railways property, for rate-making purposes, was $45,000,000. He said he would challenge the company to show that more than $25,000,000 had been invested by its stockholders.

The other $20,000,000, he said, was "contributed by the public."

In making its appraisal, the railways used, virtually entire, the inventory made by Harrop, as of Jan. 1, 1919. Neither the railways nor Harrop's figures included allowance for going value or the cost of organization, items to be added by the commission.

The railways submitted a fourth figure, $66,867,486, which it asserted to be an extension of Harrop's inventory, brought up to date with different values for land and small changes in other items, on the basis of historical cost, with an allowance for promotion and going value.

Thomas E. Francis, attorney for the receiver, who made the opening statement, endeavored after submitting the figures, to make an appeal for a liberal valuation on the ground that capital would not be attracted for needed extensions otherwise, but was interrupted by Chairman John A. Kirtz of the commission, who objected to his indulging in argument. Francis did not finish the plea.

All members of the commission sat at the hearing, including the most recent appointee, Andrew J. O'Reilly, sitting in his first case; and Hugh McIndoe of Joplin, another recent appointee.

Many Interests Represented.

The gathering of interested persons included Charles W. Bates and Francis, attorneys for the receiver; Henry S. Priest, attorney, and Richard McCulloch, president of the corporate company; Vice President Warner of the North American Co., and Morton Jourdan, attorney representing that company; Eugene H. Ansart, attorney for a preferred stockholders' committee; Louis H. Egan, president of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.; City Counselor Caulfield and C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city; F. W. Doucille of New York, consulting valuation engineer for the railways; and W. B. Bennett of Madison, Wis., his assistant.

Fare Advances Reviewed.

Francis, in making his opening address, reviewed the history of fare advances, which, he said, were necessary to meet wage demands of employees.

"The average pay of United Railways trainmen in 1916 was 26 cents an hour," he said. "Those wages have increased 107 per cent. In the same time materials have increased in cost 75 per cent, the cost of power has increased 80 per cent and taxes

BROTHERHOOD STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR STRIKE

Head of Engineers Reviews Various Attempts Made to Effect an Amicable Settlement.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—In a signed statement, Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, last evening set forth the reasons for the "Big Five" transportation organizations authorizing a strike of their membership which is set to begin Oct. 30. In the statement, he reviews various attempts made to obtain an amicable settlement.

Stone's statement follows:

"The men's position and their reasons for striking are in part as follows:

"When the transportation act of 1920 became a law it was hoped by the employees that all disputes would be adjusted, and decisions rendered by the board would be complied with by the carriers and employees.

Instead of complying with the decisions of the Labor Board, the railroads soon began to disregard or flout its decisions, flagrant cases of this being the action of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, the Erie, the Pennsylvania Railroad and many other cases that could be cited.

Increase in July, 1920.

"It is well known and admitted by all that the railway men were the last to receive any increase during the war period. During August, 1919, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers submitted to President Wilson a statement setting forth that a decrease in the cost of the necessities of life was necessary or an increase in wages was imperative.

"From that time on the question of wages was discussed on different occasions and was finally submitted to the Labor Board. In July, 1920, the board handed down a decision which, based on all the facts, they declared was just and equitable, and further stated that their conclusions were reached after long consideration of all the facts as evidenced by the testimony before them.

"Later Mr. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad appeared before the board and in a spectacular presentation demanded an immediate reduction of the wages of all railroad employees, notwithstanding the fact that the board had just granted a material increase in freight and passenger rates in order to meet the increased wages granted by the board.

This was denied on technical grounds because the carriers had not properly created a dispute in accordance with the transportation act.

Reduction of July 1.

"The railroads then began to serve notice on their employees demanding reductions in pay, thereby legally creating a dispute which was referred to the Labor Board, resulting in a 12 per cent reduction as of July 1, 1921.

"To further aggravate the situation, immediately following this, the railroads had increased 53 per cent. In 1917 the company paid $1,112,827 taxes. In 1921 it is paying $1,730,000."

In the same time, he said, fares increased only 40 per cent. He said the company was preparing to expend $50,000 for the reconstruction and repairing of streets on its right of way.

He outlined the history of the company, saying that from the time street car transportation started in St. Louis there had been 67 distinct companies which operated lines here at various times. Before the consolidation, he said, persons had to pay two or three fares to reach their destination. He asserted that the universal transfer system had resulted in saving of $7,784,000 to the public in 1920, and that since 1900 it had saved the public more than $75,000,000 in fares.

Old Methods Referred To.

When referring to some of the older companies, Francis said their books were loosely kept and it was not always possible to show where the lost money was going. He said, "Usually," he said, "there was one owner or one man charged with the management of the road's affairs. When he had to build more track or buy more horses and cars, and there was no money in the treasury he would take it out of his own pocket and the books would never show it."

"How do you know that if the books didn't show it?" asked City Counselor Caulfield.

Francis replied that the books of some of the old companies showed that money was spent, though it had not been earned, which indicated that somebody must have gone down in his pocket.

Purpose of the Hearing.

Francis, defining the scope of the hearing, said its purpose was to ascertain the facts of the case, to determine the rates necessary to produce a proper return on the company's investment; and, therefore, to determine the rate of fare to be charged, and the method of charging the fare, whether by a straight fare, or the zone system, or an additional charge for transfers.

The present proceeding, he said, was born from the company's application for an increase of rates. He said that in 1917, when a 6-cent fare was granted, the commission directed its engineering department to make a physical appraisal of the company's property.

RAIL UNION HEADS
WITH LABOR BOARD

ation, is a statement which said that concurrently with the reduction of the benefit of the reduction shall, with the assent of the Interstate meeting a great number of the railroads served notice on their employees that they would revise the schedule and take from them the rules governing their service that had been in effect for from 10 to 30 years. Said schedules were obtained partly by the efforts of the United States Board of Mediation or boards of arbitration of which the neutral members were appointed by the representatives of the Government. The majority of such rules were the result of negotiations across the table with the representatives of the organizations and the managers of the individual railroads, and acknowledged by the carriers and employees.

"A conference of all general chairmen was arranged to be held in the month of July in the city of Chicago. The result of said conference of the organizations to meet the executives of the railroads some time prior to Sept. 1 for the purpose of trying to bring about an amicable settlement of the Chicago and a committee of railroad executives were met in the east, southeast and western territories, their answers all being similar and denying any kind of conciliatory measures.

"Following the refusal of the executives of the railways to enter into any agreement with the executives of the organizations, there was nothing left to do but refer the matter to a referendum vote of all the workers employed on the railroad and to submit their decision in the matter. On October the representatives of the workers were convened in Chicago and a canvass of the vote was made, which indicated that 94 per cent plus were in favor of withdrawing from the service. Such a condition was never known before in the history of railroad labor and no doubt was caused by the arrogant, selfish attitude of the railroad executives, together with their determination to be a party to any kind of conciliatory measures.

Proposal of Another Cut.

"After the vote had been canvassed the chairman of the Railroad Owners' Association was notified by wire of the result and the request for a conference committee was made. The 150 railroad presidents meeting in Chicago named a committee of five railroad presidents to meet with the representatives of the transportation brotherhoods. They declined to make any concession or offer any solution providing for a settlement, but instead notified by wire that a resolution had been adopted by the railroad presidents asking the Labor Board for a further wage reduction of the employees. Then, and not until then, was permission given for men to leave the service.

"WARREN S. STONE."

Commerce Commission, be passed on to the public in the reduction of existing railroad rates, except in so far as this reduction shall have been made in the meantime."

Referring to the suggestion of the public group of the Railroad Labor Board that the 12 per cent wage decrease granted in July be translated immediately into lowered rates, Cuyler declared much of the decrease had been so translated even before the new wage scale became effective.

ERIE HEAD "HOPES"
STRIKE WILL COME

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad, last night expressed the hope that the strike would actually occur. "This is the time and the place for it," he declared, adding that the strike was "one against the empire," or the United States Railroad Labor Board.

"It should be understood," said Underwood, "that the present strike movement so prominently before the public, analyzed, amounts to this: It is different from any other strike, in that it is not directed against railways, but against the verdict of a body constituted by Congress, who, after a hearing, fixed wages, not at the instance of the interested parties, but founded on conditions developed by evidence.

"The real purpose is not appreciated by some of us. It is to bring about Government control—the desire of all labor bodies, some part of the public and some members of Congress.

"Railroad labor has the idea that under Government control they are better off; naturally they are for it. 'We are back at the old junction: are a minority to starve and inconvenience their paymasters, the public, for the reason that a board of umpires, on which they (the men) were represented, fail to suit their views?'

"It is really a Government affair, inasmuch as both rates and conditions were inaugurated by a tribunal entirely apart from the railroads."

Underwood said there need be no fear that the mails would not be carried.

HOUSE COMMITTEE FAVORS
A FUNDING COMMISSION

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Favorable report authorizing the creation of a commission to arrange for funding and refunding of the foreign debt was ordered today by the House Ways and Means Committee. The measure is a substitute for an administration bill which would have given the Secretary of the Treasury blanket authority over foreign debt negotiations.

LITTLE INFORMATION GIVEN BY SIMMONS

Questioned on Klan Affairs, of Lawlessness and Reiterates Former Statements.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The proposed investigation of the Ku Klux Klan by Congress blew up yesterday.

After a 10-minute session behind closed doors, the House Rules Committee which at morning and afternoon sessions put William J. Simmons, the Klan's Imperial Wizard, through a rigid examination, voted unanimously not to call any more witnesses, certainly at this time.

Announcement of the committee's action was made by Chairman Campbell, and while the chairman and members refused later to comment beyond the bare statement as to witnesses, it is expected that an adverse report will be submitted to the House on a number of resolutions providing for such an investigation.

Final action, however, will not be taken until several absent members return to Washington, but House members accepted it as settled that they were done with the Ku Klux, unless the Department of Justice, conducting an inquiry of its own, comes forward with unexpected evidence.

Still showing the effects of his illness, the Imperial Wizard's voice weakened as he sat all day answering a whirlwind of questions. As on previous days he entered a categorical denial of charges of lawlessness of the Klan and reiterated that the total membership of the organization was slightly under 100,000.

There was an exciting moment at the outset, when Simmons dramatically declared that he had information given to him by Representative Upshaw of Georgia, a man who was supposed to have been present stated that Chairman Campbell and Assistant Attorney-General Clegg had characterized his collapse last week as "a cheap theatrical attempt to gain sympathy."

Quick as a flash Chairman Campbell declared there was not a word of truth in it. Clegg, jumping to his feet in the confusion, declared the chairman's answer was for him, and the Wizard, still smiling, said he was glad to know it.

As he left the stand Simmons, apparently with deep feeling, said that he wanted to thank the committee for its consideration and courtesy.

Missouri Posse Scour Woods
For Three Bank Robbers

By the Associated Press.

WASHBURN, Mo., Oct. 18.—Posses are scouring the woods near here today in search of three men who robbed the Bank of Washburn yesterday, escaping with about $2000 in cash. The men are believed to have been located in a 100-acre wooded tract. This tract, covered with high and thick brush, is surrounded by officers and men, waiting for the men to make a break for liberty, while others, heavily armed, are beating the brush.

Several fights at close range are reported between members of the posse and the robbers. One man shot at the robbers with a shotgun from a distance of 25 feet.

As they entered the woods the men were compelled to abandon their sack of provisions and a quantity of explosives, which, it is reported, they stole at Exeter Sunday night.

The men entered the bank unmasked, yesterday, and forced Gray Wines, assistant cashier, into the vault, and fired at Walter Jones, cashier, who was just entering the bank. Jones, uninjured, was also forced into the vault, after which the men took all of the cash on sight and made for the woods, soon followed by possemen.

NEW FRANCHISE TO GIVE SERVICE TO DES MOINES

One-Man Car System Planned,

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 18.—General Judge Martin J. Wade yesterday ordered that street car service be restored in Des Moines immediately upon passage of third reading of a proposed franchise by the City Council, which is expected to take place next Monday.

The franchise provides for a man car and a sliding fare, beginning at 5 cents, reducing the earnings of the company, as low as 5 cents, with 10 cents for 30 cents.

Street car service was suspended here on Aug. 2, when the city day announced that it had accepted voluntary cut of 7 cents as the men's wages in order to get the cars restored and to assist in carrying a lower fare. The reduction was from 55 cents an hour to 48 cents.

TWO UNDERTAKINGS TO GIVE WORK TO JOBLESS APPROVED

Unemployment Commission Recommends Completion of Dock and Covering of Waterworks Basin.

FIRST PLAN DEPENDS ON $300,000 LOAN

Government Expected to Supply Funds for Terminal —Wage for Grading Work
Set at $2.

The Municipal Commission on Unemployment, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, approved plans for the immediate completion of the Municipal Dock at North Market street, where it is planned to expend $300,000 to $400,000, and to employ 100 men for 24 weeks. This plan is dependent on obtaining a loan of $300,000 from the Federal Government, and Theodore Brent, Federal highways manager, has expressed the belief that the Government will make such a loan without interest.

The commission also voted approval of the plan for covering the city waterworks basins at Baden and Bluff Point, at an estimated expenditure of $115,000, which, according to Water Department officials, will give 100 men work for two to three months.

Scale of Wages Fixed.

The commission also agreed on a plan of spending the $100,000 which is expected that the Board of Aldermen will appropriate for the purpose of grading work, on the streets and in the parks. It was decided that the scale of pay in the expenditure of this money should be fixed at $2 a day for a man and $2 a day for a woman.

Special Taxation Discussed.

The commission also authorized its Finance Committee to confer with the Board of Aldermen on the question of finding new sources of income, and to ask that the Board of Aldermen appoint a special committee to inquire into this matter.

A statement submitted by the controller showed license taxes levied in other cities which are imposed here, and it was mentioned that Chicago taxes coffins and hospitals. A. L. Shapleigh objected to this for St. Louis, saying it was difficult enough to support the city on the present tax system, without adding a burden of taxation.

Beer Manufacture Suggested.

A resolution prepared by J. J. Hesser, president of the Central Trades and Labor Union, who is also president of the Brewery Workers' Union, was placed before the commission by Cassidy. It stated that if the national prohibition enforcement act were amended to permit the sale of beer, light wines, employment could be given in St. Louis to 10,000 men, and the support of 10,000 men.

Change in Precincts Requires Time for Transfer of Names, and New Registration.

No election on a municipal bond issue, or any other matter, can be held before Feb. 15 next, officials of the Election Board said today. This fact, first made known by Robert Burkham at yesterday's meeting of the Municipal Unemployment Commission, was confirmed today by Miss Emma Bobb, special assistant to the Election Board. In the absence of Chairman Edwards of the board, this appears to mean, as Burkham pointed out to the Unemployment Commission, that a bond issue will not be a feasible means of starting public work in time to relieve the present unemployment. If a bond issue should be voted on Feb. 15, it is not likely that work on any large scale could be begun before summer, as the issuance and sale of bonds take several months.

The Board of the St. Louis Federation of the Women's Christian Temperance Union today addressed a protest to the Mayor against the resolution of the board of the city officials heretofore have demanded for the abolition of the saloons, and declares that if the brewery is permitted to reopen they will find a way of selling their product. The letter protests against the youth and womanhood of the country on the auction block for revenue purposes.

George Gellhorn, vice chairman of the subcommittee on unemployment, reported, in the absence of the chairman, George W. Simmons, that the labor agencies of the city did not seem to care to be under one roof. He recommended that the State Labor Bureau be recognized by the Municipal Commission as its approved agency. She also recommended that any campaign should be conducted to make the public feel its responsibility toward the unemployed.

Stadium, Costing $2,500,000, to Be Erected at University of Illinois as Memorial to War Dead

There will be 183 fine columns in this colossal structure to be built on the university grounds at Urbana, and each of these will bear the name of one of the 183 Illinois soldiers who fell in action in the great war. The huge stadium will provide ample space for all athletic games and other student gatherings that bring together large crowds.

She said the committee had decided that it could not recommend the split-time plan of dividing up work.

Sacks presented a letter from the Selden-Breck Construction Co., stating that if a reduction of 30 per cent should be made in labor costs, and 10 per cent in material costs, it would start construction of a downtown hotel involving a $5,000,000 investment, of which $4,000,000 would be for the structure.

Trades Council asked that this matter be referred to the Building Trades Council, and he said, when asked by Sacks what the Council would do with it, that he did not know, but that some action would be taken. The appointment of Cassidy to the Finance Committee of the Commission was announced, in order that he might have a voice in that committee's discussion of plans involving expenditures.

The proposed municipal bond issue was discussed, and Burkham argued that, while a bond issue was probably desirable on its own account, it should not be presented to the public as a remedy for unemployment. This, he held, would be a misrepresentation. He said that, as the Election Board was now transferring voters because of the redistricting process, an election could not be held before Feb. 15 next, and that months would then elapse before any work could be begun.

Zionberger Davis spoke along the same line, and the matter was laid over.

Building Loans Suggested.

Cassidy presented a request that the State and National Governments be asked to establish funds for loans for the building of workingmen's homes. This was referred to the Industrial Committee.

Byrnes raised the question of the city wage scale, saying the average pay for skilled labor was $1.08 an hour, while in the country at large it was $2 cents. He raised the question whether married women, whose husbands are earning a livelihood, are in the city's employ. Other members said Byrnes was confusing the skilled labor wage scale with the pay of City Hall employees, which it was contended, is low as compared with other cities. He asked that the Efficiency Board be requested to furnish a showing covering both points.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—Gov. Sproul has announced the appointment of State Senator William E. Crow of Uniontown as United States Senator from Pennsylvania to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Knox, ending March, 1923. The Governor has also announced that Senator Crow will be a candidate for the full term at the general election next year.

Sensor Crow, who is in Atlantic City recuperating from recent illness, will take the oath of office next Monday unless an emergency should require his presence in the Senate before that time.

The appointment, which was not unexpected in political circles, was announced yesterday by the Governor upon his arrival from New York, where he met his wife and son returning from Europe.

It was necessary for Mrs. Nora Schaeffer, a widow, of 6409 Leichen avenue, to obtain consent of her mother before the marriage license clerk would issue a license to her yesterday, she being only 18 years old. Incidentally, her fiancé, James J. Boone of Welton, who is only 20, brought a letter of consent from his mother. When these requirements had been complied with to meet the law as to ages, the license was granted.

Boone and Mrs. Schaeffer did not have their letters when they first made application for the license, but returned later in the day with them. Mrs. Schaeffer's mother is Mrs. Lillie Wade of the Leichen avenue address, and her fiancé's mother is Mrs. Nellie Boone, 6154 Page boulevard.

She alleges that Malsch was unreasonably jealous and that he tapped the telephone wire in their home and would sit in the basement and listen to her telephone conversations, at times when he was supposed to be at his work as a bookkeeper. They were married in 1919, and separated last Wednesday, her petition states.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE VERDICT

A Coroner's verdict of justifiable homicide was returned today in the case of Joseph Struckle, alias Joseph Stokreln, who died yesterday at the city hospital from a bullet wound inflicted by Leo Glickert, a special officer of the Frisco Railroad, on the morning of Oct. 14.

James F. Cassidy, a Frisco watchman, testified that he and Glickert were inspecting a freight train at Tower Grove when Struckle jumped out from between two cars on Slickert's side. Cassidy went around the train and at his approach Struckle drew a knife and slashed Glickert across the eyes and on the forehead. Cassidy fired two shots into the air. Glickert fired five shots at Struckle, who ran. He was pursued and caught at Swan and Newstead avenues.

MAN, HURT WHEN AUTO TURNS OVER, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Charles Weber, Switchman, Suffers Broken Neck in Accident on Lemay Ferry Road in County.

Charles Weber, 33 years old, of 411 East Marceau street, a Missouri Pacific switchman, died last night at the Missouri Pacific Hospital from a broken neck suffered in an automobile accident at 2 p. m. yesterday.

Weber and another man, whose identity has not been established, were in an automobile driven by H. J. Morrison Jr. of 6811 Minnesota avenue. They were going south on the Lemay Ferry road and in rounding a curve in front of the Melville Farmers' Club the automobile left the road and hit the edge of a concrete culvert. One of the wheels fell from its axle and the automobile was overturned, throwing the occupants out.

Morrison was cut and bruised. The third man, who is said to have escaped injury, left the scene before the arrival of a Deputy Sheriff. Morrison was taken to Clayton, where he furnished a statement, saying that he wished to consult a lawyer.

WORK AT ONCE ON HOSPITAL AT JEFFERSON BARRACKS URGED

President Carter of Chamber of Commerce Writes to Federal Health Service on the Project.

W. Frank Carter, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has written to department heads in the United States Public Health Service at Washington urging that work on the hospital proposed for St. Louis be started as soon as possible with a view to providing adequate facilities for war veterans and to help in relieving the situation of the unemployed here. Although it has been announced, but not officially confirmed, that St. Louis is to have one of the group of proposed Government hospitals, Carter writes on the assumption that the proposal to establish one of the hospitals here will be confirmed.

The letter states that St. Louis has not ample facilities to care for the convalescent of the World War, and points out that a site will be provided promptly by Jefferson Barracks and the Chamber of Commerce for the proposed building. He said the building could be used later as a home for soldiers.

Messages Written in Europe Photographically Reproduced In America by Wireless

Greetings From French Premier and Gen. Pershing Received in Facsimile by Belinograph Simultaneously With Sending.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—For the first time in the history of the world, messages written in Europe have been transmitted by wireless, to America and photographed and reproduced in facsimile here practically simultaneously with their sending from the other side of the Atlantic.

The messages were from the new York World from Aristides Briand, French Premier, and from Gen. Pershing in Paris.

The messages were received at the United States Navy Department's radio station at Otter Cliffs, near Bar Harbor, Me., by Edouard Belin, inventor of the machine by which photographs are sent out over a graph or telephone and reproduced perfectly at the point of reception.

The negatives were brought to New York by M. Belin himself and M. Johannant.

It is almost exactly a year since the Post-Dispatch and the World first introduced M. Belin and his apparatus to the American public, by inviting him to come from France and give a demonstration. The inventor came, installed his machine in the editorial rooms of the World in New York and of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis, and photographs were exchanged between the two papers in the presence of many of the most famous electrical and photographic experts in the United States and published in the respective papers on the following day.

At that time M. Belin predicted that within a few months it would be as easy to transmit pictures by wireless as it is now over wires. He was then working on the apparatus that would be needed, and had already transmitted handwriting by wireless over a distance of a few miles.

As the apparatus for receiving written messages or pictures drawn in line is simpler than that for receiving photographs by wireless, M. Belin has been devoting his time to perfecting this. Determined to give the most thorough test possible, he sent two of his assistants, M. Johannant and M. Touly, to America to try to send drawings by wireless across the Atlantic. They were permitted to use the United States Navy wireless station at Annapolis and succeeded in transmitting an autographic greeting to the Paris Matin from Spain by wireless yesterday.

Discussing this latest point on his arrival in New York yesterday M. Belin said: "My system is truly still in its infancy, but the Paris Bourse has already accepted orders for the purchase and sale of stocks, from Spain by wireless Belinograph and received in the autograph of the sender. It is now being used commercially in France, Belgium and Italy."

He was asked how soon he would be able to transmit ordinary photographs.

"Just as soon as I get around to the trifling changes that are necessary in the apparatus," he replied. "So far I have devoted myself to perfecting the transmission of autographic letters, and line drawings, because there seemed a more immediate demand for these; also because it was a little simpler. But within a few more months photographs will be sent and received with the same ease and over a great distance."

EMBEZZLEMENT OF $2581 CHARGED TO NOTE TELLER

M. J. Tierney, With Mercantile Trust Co. 16 Years Arrested on Information on Bank's Complaint.

Michael J. Tierney, 39 years old, of 6070 Page boulevard, until recently employed as a teller in the collection department of the Mercantile Trust Co., was arrested at 6:30 o'clock last night on an information charging him with grand larceny and embezzlement of $2581.72.

The information was issued on complaint of the bank, which alleged that the money was withdrawn from deposits made from time to time on notes which had been placed with the bank for collection. It was stated by the bank's counsel that the discrepancies in Tierney's account were found by auditors who examined his books shortly after he departed on his vacation, Sept. 15.

Tierney had been in the employment of the company 16 years. The notes involved in the alleged discrepancies belonged to the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., the Home and Housing Corporation and the estate of Mrs. M. R. Strader.

Tierney declined to discuss the charge against him and referred reporters to his lawyer, who also refused to make a statement.

The Mercantile Trust Co. is protected from loss by a bonding company.

TWO ILLINOIS BANKS IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

State Auditor Names Cashiers as "Figureheads" for Men Operating With Worthless Paper.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 12.—Naming cashiers of both the Bar-dolph State Bank and the Hanover Union State Bank as "figureheads" for Jorgen Olson of Minot, N. D., and St. Paul, Minn., State Auditor Andrew Russell yesterday afternoon announced he had closed both institutions and had appointed temporary receivers.

Estimates of the State Auditor indicate that more than $200,000 worth of worthless paper is in Illinois as a result of the operations of Olson. Leo N. Kopland, cashier of the Han-over Union State Bank, arrested at Davis Junction Sunday night, disappeared while bank examiners were looking over his accounts Friday. The bank closed immediately after-ward.

Cashier E. J. Woolver of the Bar-dolph State Bank, whose institution was closed last Monday, according to the State auditor, has made a clean breast of his irregularities. Both he and Kopland, the State Auditor's ex-aminers said, had no real financial interest in the bank but acted as representatives of Olson, were at his command, and were paid a salary by him.

Bank examiners who made pre-vious checks of the two banks failed to detect the worthless paper, as it had all the ear marks of bona fide bank notes.

ARGENTINE BUYS LOCOMOTIVES

U. S. Concern Gets Big Contract Over German Bidders.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 12.—Rep-resentatives of the Baldwin Loco-motive Works and the Middleton Steel Car Co., a subsidiary of the Standard Steel Car Co., signed yesterday a joint contract with Argentine state railways for railroad equipment costing $12,000,000. The contract which is subject to the approval of President Yrigoyen, calls for the delivery of 25 locomotives and 2000 freight cars and spare parts.

The companies have accepted in payment Argentine 6 per cent treasury notes, which would mature in five years. The American concerns got the contract in competition with two German corporations.

ANOTHER ARREST IN BANK MESSENGER CASE

Auto Salesman, Named in Confession, Is Taken in New Orleans; Denies Guilt.

A telegram to the St. Louis police from the police of New Orleans last night told of the arrest in New Orleans of Joseph L. Lynch, formerly an automobile salesman in St. Louis, who was mentioned in the confession of Maurice J. Gabriel as one of those who shared in the proceeds of the $14,000 "framed up" robbery of John Helms, negro bank messenger for the North St. Louis Savings Trust Co., on a Grand avenue street car Sept. 14 last.

Lynch is under indictment here in connection with this robbery on a charge of receiving stolen property. Announcement that the indictment had been voted was made today following news of his arrest. The message said Lynch admitted his identity and waived extradition, asserting that while he might be wanted as a witness in St. Louis, he had not committed a crime.

Gabriel in his confession said Lynch sold him the automobile used in the robbery and introduced him to Clyde L. Higlin, one of those under indictment on the robbery charge. He said that the day after the robbery Lynch drove him and others in the plot to a house in North St. Louis, where the money was divided. Later, he said, he met Lynch, who, he said, complained that he had received only $1200 of the money and wanted more. Gabriel said he then gave Lynch $200.

When a case against Higlin, charging grand larceny and receiving stolen property from the Simmons Hardware Co., was called in the Criminal Court today, Higlin did not answer, and his $2500 bond, signed by John G. Oehler, a professional bondsman, was declared forfeited.

Higlin also failed to answer to warrants in the Court of Criminal Correction, Oct. 10, in connection with the robbery of Helms. He was not under bond to answer these warrants, but is under a common law bond of $1000 to answer any charge that might be preferred against him during the present term of court. Unless he presents himself during this term of court that bond also will be forfeited.

WILEE TRIUMPHS AS MUSIC SEASON OPENS

Metropolitan Tenor in Joint Recital at Odeon With Miss Sophie Braslau.

RICHARD L. STOKES.

After death, plenty; and some of abundance presided over a night at the Odeon over a with which, Mario Chamlee, Miss Sophie Braslau broke the season. Bounteously the new spent its applause; and was the response of the audience. Chamlee, in a burst of opera, went so far as to fling forth, the treasure of three operatic arias in a row, as Together, tenor and contrapuntal, spread a feast of as many as a dozen numbers.

Three Arias as Encores. began the program with the "Air de la Fleur," from "L'Alceste," rendering the amorous and with despondency and passion. Softly and rapturously came a love song, "Oh, quand je t'aime," together with two songs by "L'Alceste," "Harvest Field," in which seemed a lack of inspiration in the melodies was redeemed in the accompaniments. Other group of songs included "L'Alceste," "Harvest Field," and "Call Me No More," a song so little as to excite an ovation for its singer. It did not subside until she had sung, one after another, "L'Alceste," "Harvest Field," and "Call Me No More," from "Rigoletto." These arias were the height of the concert.

Braslau, also of the Metropolitan, more deserved gratitude for enterprise in searching out and presenting such a variety of music. There was a superb solo cantata, a seventeenth century Italian, "L'Alceste," the teacher of Composita, "L'Alceste," was a little, and its grief and love of mood offered an eminent opportunity for Miss Braslau's skill in the rendering of song, her intensity and her aptness in conveying the timbre of her voice.

As usual in her programs, Miss Braslau provided several Russian songs. One of these, by Rachmaninoff, "Vocalise," is unique in having words, the voice being treated instrumentally. It is supposed to present the poignant but inarticulate cry of Russia. Two others, by Glinka, were called "The Orphan" and "The Classic." In the latter, the inarticulate musical recited his revenge upon a certain critic who was guilty of being so ancient a fog as Mozart. Women singers have the art of making themselves at the piano an encore. This never fails to excite enthusiasm and admiration. The vocalists can also strike a few chords on the keyboard. Most commendable with "Home, Sweet Home" or "Annie Laurie." Miss Braslau at least chose something not easy, the "Habanera" from "Carmen." The great Yiddish lauder, "Eli, Eli," was sung with the artist's utmost fervor.

Standard of the program was maintained by Miss Braslau's choice of an imitation negro song, "Greatest Miracle of All," her concluding encore, that Russian ballad, "The Sweetest River Told," which capped the evening with an appalling anti-climax.

concert was the first of a new recital under the auspices of J. Gaines, manager of the Odeon Orchestra. The attendance moderate. Other artists to be heard in the series are Louise, Hilda, Lehar, Josef Hofmann, Emilio de Gogorza and Jasha.

TRIAL OF JAMES HOGAN TO BE HELD AT UNION

Defendants in Pillow Murder Case Get Change of Venue to Judge Hogan's Court.

Through changes of venue granted by Circuit Judge Hall yesterday, James Hogan will be tried at Union, Franklin County, Mo., on the charge of having held up and robbed Morris Pillow, negro bank messenger of the North St. Louis Savings Trust Co. April 14 last. The change of venue was granted without hearing testimony and the selection of Union was made by the Judge.

Thomas McKillip and Leo Camy, charged with murdering Pillow May 9 last, after efforts had been made to induce Pillow not to testify against Hogan, will be tried in Judge Hogan's division of the Criminal Court. Their cases were docketed for trial before Judge Hall yesterday, but their attorney, Sigmund Bass, filed notice that he would ask for a change of venue.

When the cases were called on the docket yesterday afternoon Bass appeared in court and told the Judge it had been his original intention to ask that the cases be taken outside the St. Louis jurisdiction, but that his clients had objected to this.

"They don't want to go out of the city for trial," Bass said to Judge Hall. "They are afraid that if they go out in the country they will get hanged. I don't know but that they are using good judgment in taking this view."

Bass then filed affidavits alleging prejudice on the part of Judge Hall and asked that the cases be assigned to another division of the St. Louis court. The assignment to Judge Hogan's court was then made.

RATIONS FOR 5,000,000 FOR 6 MONTHS NEEDED

Head of American Relief in Russia Estimates This Amount Will Save All in Danger.

By HERBERT PULTZER.
A Staff Correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

MOSCOW, Oct. 12.—"Rations for 5,000,000 people for six months will be sufficient to save all the lives endangered by the Russian famine," Col. William Haskell, head of American Relief Administration in Russia, said yesterday, on his return from an inspection trip in the Volga region. "The total cost of relieving the famine," he continued, "would be about $50,000,000, or about $5 for each person for the entire famine period. Five million pounds of food a day, under our rations, will be needed."

"Discounting possible exaggeration, there are about 15,000,000 Russians facing starvation, but they are not all without food, so that, judging from past experience, we believe our figures are correct. Conditions are worse the further one gets from the lines of communication. Some of the Ural Mountain villages are six weeks from a railroad and can only be reached by wagon and then by pack horse. The scarcity of fodder makes transportation by this method more than usually difficult. The question of adult feeding is an important problem and if it is undertaken by America cereals are essential. Cattle are being killed in large numbers because of the lack of fodder, so there are enough feds."

Wheat flour delivered at Riga costs less than $100 a ton, and owing to the splendid harvest in America, corn meal will probably cost half that amount. The Russians would have to be educated to eat this instead of rye, however.

Conditions will grow steadily worse all winter until April or May, when the spring harvest will be gathered. In the order of importance, supplies needed urgently are food, medicine and clothing. Most of the inhabitants have been able to contrive some sort of warm garments that will last them over the rigors of a Russian winter.

Forrest J. Alvin, general manager of the United States Motor Truck Co. of Cincinnati, will be the principal speaker at the Members' Conference at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Hotel Statler tomorrow. Just Like a Man

"My husband suffered for several years with stomach trouble. He often had colic attacks that put him to bed. But a man can't stand the pain that a woman can. He thought he was going to die and the doctors didn't seem to help him any. Like a drowning man grasping for a straw, he tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which a nurse told us about and now he is entirely well and eats anything. It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. S.S. "Virgilia" of the Casard Line which recently carried 87,000 New Improved Gillettes to England. Simultaneous shipments went to France, Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Italy. 335,000 New Improved Gillettes shipped abroad in the month of August alone.

Only the boundaries of the world can limit the spread of the New Improved Gillette

IN the month of August, 335,000 New Improved Gillettes were shipped to England, France, Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Italy.

Forerunners of nobody knows how many of these improved shaving instruments that will go to the remotest part of the earth as fast as they can be made.

No new invention has ever had such immediate world-wide demand.

Another picture of what travelers have so often said—that Gillette is the best known article of any kind used anywhere by anyone.

For instance, Gillette Blades in foreign countries. Where they cost two to ten times as much as competitive makes. Yet over 90% of the sales are genuine Gillette Blades. And in more than one country, a gratuity from tourists in the form of Gillette Blades is more acceptable than money.

By now, many of your very own neighbors express their enthusiasm over the real shaving advance brought to them by the New Improved Gillette.

Not long before you can go anywhere in the world and hear the same thing.

Important about the New Improved Gillette—A Word about the Blades

Most men prefer to screw the razor up tight to get the most satisfactory shave.

Gillette deems it proper to ask the public to use Gillette Blades only in genuine Gillette Razors.

The Gillette Blade and Gillette Razor are developed to work together. No Gillette Blade can deliver its full shaving quality unless used in a genuine Gillette Razor—built by Gillette, in the Gillette way and up to Gillette standards.

The New Improved GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR

Uses the same fine Gillette Blades as you have known for years—but now your Blades can give you all the luxury of the finest shaving edge in the world.

TESTIMONY FOR DEFENSE BEGUN IN LAMPERT CASE

Witnesses Say Cigar Maker Was Determined and Could Not Have Been Influenced in Making Will.

"SISTER SOUGHT TO MAKE HOME FOR HIM"

Attorney Says Contesting Nephews and Nieces Were Responsible for Uncle's
Lack of Interest in Them.

The defense in the Jacob Lampert will suit began yesterday in Circuit Judge Rutledge's court after the Judge had overruled a motion for dismissal of the case.

C. P. Mattison, 3529 Lafayette avenue, a leaf tobacco dealer, testified that for 16 years he had sold tobacco to Lampert, who was a millionaire cigar manufacturer at 412 Market street, and that Lampert was not a man to be easily influenced. Mattison said he was at Lampert's place of business on the day before the cigar manufacturer died and tried to sell the latter a quantity of tobacco at a bargain, but Lampert could not see it that way and refused to buy. "He was a determined man," the witness stated.

William A. Hall, 2308 Dodder street, a manufacturer and grand treasurer of the Free Masons of Missouri, as well as former grand master of that order, of which Lampert also was once grand master, testified he heard Lampert say that, although he was providing his sister, Mrs. Rosa Graff, 5349 Pershing avenue, with expense money for various trips, it did not make any difference as to how she got it, or her daughter, Esther, would get it all anyhow. Mrs. Graff is principal beneficiary in the will.

Remark as to Nephews. Hall further testified that he once heard Lampert say that he had a good home with Mrs. Graff, that she was a splendid cook, particularly good as a maker of pies and pancakes, both of which he was very fond. The witness also said that he heard Lampert say: "I have several nieces and nephews, but I don't bother them and they don't bother me."

The 11 nieces and nephews, who were not named as beneficiaries, are plaintiffs in the suit to set aside the will of their uncle, who was a scholar. The will was made 26 days before he died. They allege that Mrs. Graff influenced him in making the document and that she poisoned his mind against them. They are children of two of his deceased sisters.

Outlining their side to the jury, Attorney Spencer M. Thomas, for the defense, said it would be shown that Lampert's bequest to Mrs. Graff was purely through his love and affection for her. She did not even know he had made a will, nor did she have any idea he was as well off as an inventory of his estate revealed, the attorney declared. The lawyer denied that Mrs. Graff influenced her brother against the nieces and nephews or that she had caused trouble. "Mrs. Graff," Thomas said, "was a peace-maker instead of a trouble-maker. She suggested to her brother that he ought to take his other nieces on trips instead of always taking her daughter, and Lampert replied, 'I'll take whomever I please.'"

Says Plaintiffs Were Responsible. According to the lawyer's statement, Mrs. Graff was interested in seeing that her brother had a comfortable home, good health and a long life. She was not concerned, he said, about her brother dying so that she could get his property. Counsel also asserted that the plaintiffs themselves were responsible for whatever lack of interest their uncle had displayed for them, because they had been neglectful of him.

"On the day after his death one of the nieces attended a theater and a few days later several of them were at a dance," Thomas said.

8000 RESERVES IN NAVAL FORCES TO BE DISENROLLED

Commander Receives Orders to Disband Men in Missouri and Kansas Because of Lack of Funds.

Commander G. F. Schwartz of St. Louis, in charge of the Naval Reserve Force in Missouri and Kansas, said today that orders recently were received for the disenrollment of the 8000 men under his command in the two states, effective as of Sept. 30 last, because the Navy Department lacks funds to pay the men's retainers fees. The orders received here, he added, disclosed that the department had ordered the disenrollment of virtually the entire force of 275,000 reservists, as of the same date, for lack of funds.

Between 4000 and 5000 of the men under Commander Schwartz are St. Louisans. Not all of them have been active service of any sort, having entered the reserve as citizens, while others were in the regular navy or the merchant marine. Their average pay as reservists was about $15 a year each, the minimum retainer being $12. Not many of the reservists in St. Louis have been active in their duties, but those who have been are being held together and weekly drills are being held under the status of the men as members of the Missouri Naval Militia.

To Require More Interest. Aside from the lack of funds, it was the belief of the department that the reserve needed reorganization, Commander Schwartz said. It is thought that steps will be taken soon to provide a much smaller reserve force, the members of which will receive retainers, but who must show an active interest in their work.

About 30 officers and 130 men of all the reservists in St. Louis have been taking an active interest, the Commander said. They have attended drills and participated in 15-day cruises on the Mississippi River in the three subunits of St. Louis reserve during the last summer.

At the end of the war the Naval Reserve force numbered 375,000, but was soon reduced by resignations and otherwise to 275,000. Of this number, the Commander said, about 1800 officers and 25,000 men throughout the country were actively interested. The disenrollment order and reorganization ultimately would result in a force of about 50,000 trained men, who would receive retainers, in the opinion of Commander Schwartz.

The disenrolled men are to be paid up to Sept. 30. Those who were ordered disenrolled were to be asked to enter the reserve again in class 6, an honorary class which receives no retainers, and which was primarily intended for specialists. Classes 2 to 5, inclusive, were ordered disenrolled, these being composed of men who had entered the service in various ways. Class 1, about 6000 men who served in the regular navy, was not ordered disenrolled.

Demands for "Confirmation." By serving abroad for three months, or by taking six of the 15-day cruises, and passing a mental examination, a reservist is eligible for "confirmation," which makes him eligible for more pay. There are 14 confirmed officers and 15 confirmed men in St. Louis, the men receiving $5 or more a month apiece and the officers about $36, provided certain requirements were met.

About 400 men and 50 officers from the Missouri-Kansas district went on the river cruises last summer. The sub-chasers are to remain here and the station, which is at Ferry street, is under the care of a few men who are paid from general navy funds.

"The disenrollment is purely a reorganization step, I think," Commander Schwartz said. "When we are through we will have a small, compact force of men who are really interested, and we will have eliminated the 'dead timber.'"

LIEUT. M'MULLEN HURT IN FALL
Police Officer Drops From Shed When in Pursuit of Negroes.
Police Lieutenant John McMullen, 42 years old, of 5992 Wells avenue, suffered scalp wounds and what doctors said might be a fractured hip at 8 o'clock last night when he fell from the roof of a shed in the rear of 3878 Page boulevard while in pursuit of one of two negroes who had been engaged in a knife and revolver fight a short time before. He was taken to his home, where doctors said an X-ray examination would be necessary to determine the extent of his injury.

The negroes, Arthur Walker, 42, of 3933 Cook avenue, and James Hollis, 29, of 3532 Cozans avenue, former partners in the ice and coal business, quarreled, the police reported, at Walker's home. Hollis shot Walker in the left hand and chest and was stabbed by Walker in the neck and head. Hollis fled after the affray. It was in the pursuit of Hollis that Lieut. McMullen was hurt. The negroes were arrested.

PREACHER'S WIFE'S AMENDED PETITION ASKS FOR ALIMONY
Divorce Case Against Minister at Charleston, Mo., Continued Until February.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHARLESTON, Mo., Oct. 18.—The divorce case of Lella Harris Sexton against John W. Sexton, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, South, of this city, which was docketed for trial in the Mississippi County Circuit Court for yesterday, was continued by consent to the February term, 1922. An amended petition was filed in which the plaintiff seeks alimony.

There are no changes from the original petition, filed Sept. 6, in which Mrs. Sexton alleges that the minister made her unhappy by quarreling, striking her and on one occasion knocking her down and by saying things that made her marriage ties unbearable. The defendant, denied all the allegations.
The officers of the church, with one exception, stand with the minister and refuse to believe any of the allegations.
The defendant's service with the Canadian forces in the ranks in Siberia is urged in his behalf. Mrs. Sexton has been a teacher in the grade schools here for a number of years.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Menthosulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

Considering the millions of dollars' worth of Furniture and Housefurnishings bought every year, it is surprising how many people pay more than they should for them.
Until we inaugurated our Thrift Terms
—a few months ago there were just two ways of buying homefurnishings in St. Louis:
(1) On a cash basis, i. e., a payment in full within a period of about 90 days.
(2) Installment or time payment plan, which required payment in full within a year or so.
If a purchaser did not have the cash to pay as required by the first plan he was forced to buy on the "Installment Plan"
The "installment house" usually allows a discount of 10% or more for cash, which, of course, means their price is at least that much higher than that of a firm operating on a cash basis.
Until our Thrift Terms were established we operated on a Cash basis.
Under our present arrangement we retain for the purchaser all the advantages of both systems, with none of the drawbacks of either.
Our merchandise is priced on a "cash basis" with all guesswork eliminated because of our exact cost-accounting system. If it is desired to extend the payment beyond 90 days, arrangements are made for an interest charge on the unpaid balance through each month, which is added to the monthly payment. This is a wholly dignified and honest recognition of your credit power—exactly like borrowing the money from your bank.
An example will show how this differs from the "time-payment" plan and how much it saves you Suppose you purchase a Dining-Room Suite which we have priced at $200. The "installment house" price on this Suite would be at least $222.00, for the "installment house" allows a discount of 10%, as pointed out above. (A comparison, we feel sure, will show you a greater difference than that assumed here.) In both cases arrangements are made to pay in full in one year.
Under our Thrift Terms you would make a payment of about $20.00 at time of purchase and monthly payments of $15.00. At the end of 90 days the unpaid balance is $135.00. The interest charge on this balance through the fourth month is 90 cents, that is, the fourth monthly payment is $15.90. The interest charge decreases by 10 cents each month, the last monthly payment being $15.10. The total interest charge is $4.50, that is, you have paid in all $204.50 instead of $222, or a saving to you of at least $17.50
We believe that when the public understands this situation other dealers in Homefurnishings in St. Louis will adopt the equivalent of Thrift Terms.

Five Years' Work Culture of Mound Be Understood, Dr.
Archeologist Gives Summary Thus Far in the to Academy
A summary of his exploration thus far in the Cahokia group of mounds in the Madison County, Ill., was made last night by Warren K. Moorehead, director of the museum of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., to the Academy of Science, meeting at Jefferson Memorial.
He also showed lantern slide pictures of his finds in other mound and earthwork groups in explorations covering more than 20 years, showing what of value in reconstructing the life of prehistoric inhabitants this region he hopes Cahokia will add to thorough exploration.
One of the accomplishments at Cahokia recited by Moorehead was the demonstration, by the digging of 51-foot mound to its center and six lines, that the mounds were built by man and were not the work of nature. The Post-Dispatch recently published discoveries regarded Moorehead as proof of his conclusion—the various strata of earth, the presence of fire-burned plateaus, one of which was a sacrificial altar, and the finding of countless bits of pottery and human and animal bones, which, he said, were the debris of a village site scooped up by the dirt by the Indian women they filled their baskets to carry to the mound.
Some Pottery Inland.
Moorehead said also that pottery fragments had been found in his digging which established the ceramic art of the Cahokia women as the highest achieved by any of the prehistoric mound builders north of the Cliff Dwellers of the Southwest. Moorehead said that some of the pottery found was inland, a rare discovery in early peoples, and near of the pottery bore a nearness, which was uncommon. His finding of the Cahokia pottery was secured in, he said, by Edward M. Rogers, author of Southern mound mounds, who visited Cahokia last year.
He said, in this connection, that he recently had learned of clay deposits adjacent to the East St. Louis city, which he had reason to believe were the source of material for Cahokia pottery.
He said that he hoped to work long these clay deposits and make study of prehistoric pottery making something that has not been mistaken elsewhere so far as he is aware.
Moorehead said that some of the Cahokia pottery suggested sculptured human forms done crudely in clay, but with good action, having found.
As to the skeleton, found on a northeast of Monk's Mound, Moorehead said that it had distinguished in removal so that, after perusing visitors a week ago Sunday view it, he reserved a few of the bones and announced that he had no use for the remainder.
Think, it disappeared like that," Moorehead said, snapping his fingers. Moorehead said that the large bones would be sent to Dr. Hilleka, the Smithsonian anatomist, to see what use he could make them in reconstructing the physical aspects of the Cahokia tribes.
Lantern Slides Shown.
Moorehead's lantern slides showed early his excavations at Fort Ancient, O., and in the Hopewell group mounds in Ohio, from which he took 100,000 art specimens, forming the Hopewell-Moorehead collection in the Field Museum at Chicago. Together with pictures of the "stone cave" of Tennessee, some exterior pictures of Cahokia furnished by Dr. M. Whipple, and four interior pictures taken during his present exploration.
Included in the Ohio pictures were many "Andes" which Moorehead said will be duplicated at Cahokia. He said, the meager discoveries thus far indicated that the Cahokia people were separate and distinct from the Hopewell, to notched arrow heads, established as peculiar to Cahokia and found in Ohio village sites.
He showed copper plates, chisels, flint instruments, into elaborate "decorative" designs, taken from the Effigy Mound in Ohio, which resembles in contour the Monk's Mound of Cahokia. He said these copper plates was a "tablet," which, Moorehead said, he found the world over in archaeological digging.
Another Ohio "find" pictured was a collection of pearl beads, sufficient to fill a bushel basket. "If an expert told me that the original value of the beads was $11,000," Moorehead said, "though, of course they did not have that value when found, having come from long contact with the Indians."
Picture of 7532 Discs.
Another picture was a large pile of discs about the size of a coin, 7532 in number, found in one mound, which, Moorehead said, was a cache of raw material for working into implements of war and peace. "I think it will be possible to find more of these discs in the future."

St. Louis By-Product Coke is better than Hard Coal.

As to my experience with By-Product Coke, I have been delighted with it.

It required between 15 and 18 tons of hard coal to produce one ton of By-Product Coke, and I find that the By-Product Coke is as good, or better, than the hard coal.

It is easier to handle; that the fire burns even heat, and that it holds fire more satisfactorily.

NORWEGIAN URGES A HIGHER MORAL LEVEL FOR PRESS

Greek Representative at Press Congress Also Pleads for Campaign to Control Sensationalism.

WOULD HAVE PRESS COMBAT OWN EVILS

Tokio Publicist Discusses Psychology of News, Says Small Stories Repeating Life Have Greatest Value.

By the Associated Press. HONOLULU, Oct. 18.—The value of true news and high journalistic standards as a means of attaining better international understanding and assuring the world of peace was discussed before the Press Congress of the world yesterday by Ludvig Saxo, Secretary of the Norwegian Press Association.

"The moral level of the press must be raised higher than ever for the work of uplifting and enlightening humanity," said Mr. Saxo. "It has been given us to have a splendid opportunity to serve our fellow men. Our duty is to serve them well. We cannot in a short while change the entire press system, with its power depending upon advertising and public taste we can strengthen our claims to our own respect for truth."

Thales Coutsopoulos, president of the Union of the Athenian Press, voiced a plea for a world-wide campaign by press associations to control sensationalism in newspapers. He called attention to "the evil papers in such endeavors catering to low instincts to obtain circulation, or secure a dishonest profit," and continued: "My view is that the only hope of diminishing this evil influence can come from the press itself."

The Greek publicist, deploring the control of numbers of newspapers by a single individual or corporation as preventing complete freedom of the press, urged that the press associations of the various countries find means of requiring that the owners of newspapers have suitable integrity, capacity and learning to fit them to become publishers.

"A rich man with a chain of newspapers can do what he pleases," Coutsopoulos declared.

K. Sugimura of the Asahi Shimbun of Tokyo, discussed the various bases of news value in logic, sociology and psychology, and declared, "It is not enough to state small stories repeating life appeal most strongly to the public and have the greatest news value."

Gregorio Nieva of the Philippine Review, Manila, proposed a constitutional amendment making the membership fee of the congress $1000 from each member country, and, in addition, $10 for each newspaper a member of that country's press association.

William Southern Jr. of the Independence (Mo.) Examiner, on behalf of the Missouri Press Association, invited the congress to hold its next meeting in St. Louis. Another invitation was received from Spain.

By the Associated Press. HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 18.—A plea for open sessions at the forthcoming Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions was made here today by Gregorio Nieva, editor of the Philippine Review of Manila, representing the Philippine press and Government before the Press Congress of the World.

Only by making its sessions "public to all men and nations on earth, by throwing wide open the doors of secret diplomacy," will the conference "find the formula for men's lasting peace, based on mutual understanding," he declared.

"It is this natural confidence and cordial openness that we all must try to see as the distinguishing feature of our service in behalf of universal good. It is this service that I wish to enlist in the achievement of human purposes in the Far East," said Nieva.

KING SENDS MESSAGE OF APPRECIATION OF AMERICAN HONOR TO BRITISH DEAD

Victoria Cross for Unknown U. S. Soldier Announced Following Impressive London Ceremony.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Oct. 18.—The British Government has decided to award the Victoria Cross, the highest British award, to America's "Unknown Warrior."

King George has also sent a message of warm appreciation to President Harding for the tribute of the United States to the British record of known warrior. The gift of the medal of honor to a British comrade in arms, whose tomb in Westminster Abbey stands for all our best endeavor and hardest sacrifice in war, is a gesture of friendly sympathy and good will which we will not forget.

"I wish to express to you and the Congress and people of the United States the warm appreciation felt throughout this country of the tribute you are paying today to our unknown warrior. The gift of your medal of honor to a British comrade in arms, whose tomb in Westminster Abbey stands for all our best endeavor and hardest sacrifice in war, is a gesture of friendly sympathy and good will which we will not forget."

"On Armistice day representatives of the British Empire in Washington will join with you in the ceremony of awarding the Victoria Cross to the subject of the medal of honor to your own troops. I greatly wish on that occasion to confer on your unknown warrior our highest decoration for valor—the Victoria Cross."

has never been another state, but I trust you and the American people will accept the gift in order that the British Empire may thus most fittingly pay tribute to a tomb which symbolizes every deed of conspicuous valor performed by the men of your great fighting forces, whether by sea or land, upon the western front.

"I also send my heartfelt good wishes to the representatives of the empire which opens by your wise initiative on that day. My ministers, I know, will strive as wholeheartedly as you to make that conference a sterling success. May they, in the presence of a representative of the British Empire, achieve to achieve to perpetuate the comradeship of war in the maintenance of peace."

After the ceremony at Westminster Abbey yesterday for Britain's unknown warrior, Gen. Pershing motored to Portsmouth and boarded an American destroyer for Havre.

He was met at the pier by a band of the British Royal Marines, which played the national anthem. The party filed out in procession on the parade ground, where Gen. Pershing placed the wreath of laurels and palms, tied with a ribbon of American colors. Attached to the wreath was a card on which was written:

"Told by Gen. Pershing with loving sympathy and in glorious memory of his British comrades who fell during the great war."

BRIAND TELLS HOW TO BE A GREAT ORATOR

He Says He Never Reads a Speech Because That Is Only Cold Ashes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, Oct. 18.—Premier Briand, perhaps the greatest and certainly the most persuasive orator of France, has revealed some of the secrets of his eloquence. He never writes his speeches before delivering them.

"A speech that is read," M. Briand says, "is only cold ashes. Personally, I have to await inspiration from my audience, and it is they who decide the form my thoughts take in expressing them."

He says he prepares his speeches while walking in the open air or pacing up and down his study.

"What is when I manufacture eloquence. I conjure up all the possible objections to my arguments and theories. Then I brush the whole subject from my mind. Soon, unconsciously, my arguments settle down and take shape. Eloquence is the result of meditative silence."

M. Briand admits that his improvised speeches, if subjected to a scrutiny by a grammarian, would show numerous faults, but he does not care. His view is that a political address is intended to move and convince, and if it attains that object it is sufficient to class it as eloquent.

BYRDE DEPRECATES AMERICAN FEAR OF THE JAPANESE

Former British Ambassador to U. S. Says Apprehension of Aggressive Policy Is Not Well Founded.

Returning to London From American Visit, He Tells of View That Anglo-Japanese Pact Helps Tokio.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Oct. 18.—Americans are apprehensive of Japanese aggression, says Viscount Bryce, former British Ambassador at Washington, in an article printed in today's London Times, in which he reviews the popular attitude of America toward the conference on the limitation of armaments, as he observed it during his recent visit to the United States. He declares Americans hold the opinion that the Anglo-Japanese treaty encourages Japan to take an aggressive attitude.

Viscount Bryce deprecates the fear of the Japanese, and says, among other things, that the Japanese in California are not numerous enough to be a danger, although they are clamorous and progressive. "Californians," he goes on, "have the same sort of dislike for them which the tougher part of the wage-earning class everywhere has for strangers who, without doing any work, are dissimilar in habits and aspect."

"The irritation against the Japanese is sedulously fostered and diffused by the means of the press, and it receives some support from its association with the fear of the so-called yellow races which was encouraged by the former Kaiser."

"Some American writers have even warned California to beware of Japanese invasion, although every one might at this time and day be expected to know what would befall a fleet and army arriving on a hostile coast after a voyage of many thousands of miles, occupying more than three weeks."

The writer says that nine out of 10 Americans seem to believe England is the exclusive ally of Japan, and that the Anglo-Japanese treaty makes the Tokio Government think it has a free hand to adopt policies of aggression upon which it would otherwise fear to embark.

"Explanations do not seem likely to remove this impression from the American mind," he continues, "even when Englishmen point out that their own interests in China are identical with those of Americans, and that Japanese ascendancy in Manchuria would be as injurious to Great Britain as to the United States."

BRITISH PARLIAMENT OPENS SESSION ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Statement on Subject by Prime Minister Is Postponed Until Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Oct. 18.—Parliament opened today for its autumn session, but interest in today's session was diminished by the announcement that Prime Minister Lloyd George had deferred until tomorrow his important statement relative to unemployment. This night after a late meeting of the Cabinet Council, and it was inferred that the full details of the Cabinet's policy had not been completed.

The session of Parliament is intended to be brief, its business being limited to one topic, unemployment, although financial matters inseparable from the business situation must necessarily be handled. It is understood today that although measures dealing with the situation have been decided upon by the Government, it will be necessary, owing to the rules of the House of Commons, to give that body notice of the introduction of legislation.

The first business to come before the lower house today was a motion from the Government to devote the whole time of the House to the unemployment question. Whether this should be moved by Lloyd George or Austen Chamberlain was not announced, but it was understood yesterday that it was introduced by the Prime Minister, he would also touch briefly on other matters. Possibly the Washington conference and negotiations with Sinn Fein were on the agenda.

Veterans Freed in Disturbance Case. Bowlsiders and clad in medieval costume and glistening armor to represent men at arms, as an advertisement for a picture show, Virgil Gentry, 2826 Sheridan avenue, and George Siegman, 2617 Gravois avenue, former soldiers, were haled before Judge Mix in Police Court today on a charge of peace disturbance. They were arrested last night for attracting a crowd that congested traffic at Grand avenue and Delmar boulevard, and gave different names at the time. Judge Mix said he was not in favor of punishing a former service man seeking a living by honest advertising.

Priest to Be Buried at Normandy. The body of the Very Rev. Fidelis Kent Stone in private life, 81 years old, for 30 years head of the Passionist Order of the Catholic Church in South America, who died last Friday in San Mateo Park, near Los Angeles, is en route to St. Louis for burial in Normandy, where the Passionist monastery is.

Julius Kronberg, Artist, Dies. STOCKHOLM, Oct. 18.—Julius Kronberg, widely known artist, died here yesterday.

Japan Seeks to Conquer China by Trade and Political Favor, but Finds Her Method Costly

Ruling Powers Realize That Armies Would Be Lost Amid Vast Population but Seek Vast Exclusive Rights—Policy Conflicts With America's "Open Door" Demands.

What of Japan? What will she do to help bring about the settlement of vexing issues at the Conference to Limit Armament to be held in Washington in November? Are her differences with the United States irreconcilable? Is she ruled by her militarists? Is she Prussianized? Does she really hate us? What of her attitude toward China? Is she seeking world domination? These questions and others are being answered in a series of nine articles specially written for the Post-Dispatch by Charles Merz, until recently associate editor of the New Republic, a student of world politics and a writer of ability, who has just returned from Japan and the Far East. The sixth of his articles follows:

By Charles Merz. Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. (Copyright, 1921, by the Press Publishing Co.)

From every point of view, China is the central factor in the foreign policy of Japan, the keystone of the political situation in the Far East today. What is the policy of Japan toward China? No other question is so often asked in Japan by those foreigners who are interested in the peace and progress of Eastern Asia. It is the first question put to Japanese diplomats by foreign journalists, to Japanese bankers and merchants by business men from overseas. Occasionally some Japanese offers to put all the cards upon the table. But no one hand holds all the cards.

The situation, in some respects, is like one nearer home. "What is the policy of America toward Mexico?" A Japanese editor asked that question of an American a few weeks ago in Tokyo. The American sketched several replies which did not seem to fit the bill; then proffered the explanation that some Americans wanted Mexico to be a rich and genial place in which to live as the United States, with ourselves reaping only a legitimate neighbor's share of the accruing profits; that others of us hoped Mexico would settle down, because settled down, it was far easier to exploit her; and that still others, no doubt, wanted to come as near making Mexico an American colony as we dared, without running up too high a bill.

The Japanese editor smiled. "Now," he said, "ask me what is Japan's policy toward China." The two cases, certainly, have many points of resemblance. The several different attitudes of Japan toward China vary in strength, like the several different attitudes of America toward Mexico, with the run of events at home and across the border.

There is no occasion here for a long review of history; but it is fairly clear which group has for some years been in the saddle in Japan, when it came to determining Japan's policy toward China. All the testimony that is needed on this point is supplied by the famous Twenty-one Demands.

They have been dragged into the limelight often enough, these Twenty-one Demands, though they were originally never intended for it. Nevertheless, it is impossible to appreciate the political situation in the Far East without pointing out once more the issues they involved.

For instance: "If China needs foreign capital to work mines, build railways and construct harbor works (including dockyards) in the province of Fukien, Japan shall be first consulted." So much for the "Open Door."

"If the Chinese Government employs political, financial or military advisers or instructors in South Manchuria or Eastern Mongolia, the Japanese Government shall first be consulted." So much for "Equality of Opportunity."

"The Chinese Central Government shall employ influential Japanese as advisers in political, financial and military affairs." . . . The Police Departments of important places shall be jointly administered by Japanese and Chinese, or the police Department of these places shall employ numerous Japanese." So much for the "Administrative Integrity of China."

"China shall purchase from Japan a fixed amount of munitions of war." . . . So much for the promotion of peace in Eastern Asia.

These are only fragments. There is a long list of similar demands. It must be remembered that they are not the work of dreamers or of irresponsible imperialists, but of the Government of Japan—the same Government which was meantime announcing to all the world its devotion to the best interests of China.

It is not hard to see what the man who framed the 21 demands was aiming at. They are like one group of Americans in their attitude toward Mexico—they want to come as near making China a colony of Japan as they dare, without running up too high a bill.

This conquest is not to be made in story-book style. No armies will march over China, conquering the country for the Mikado. The statesmen who drew the 21 demands are too canny for elementary ideas. They know, to begin with, that China is a country just 29 times larger than Japan—without railways or even roads adequate to the transport of a military force. An army of 100,000 men would be lost in China. They could take Peking, but Peking is not another Paris. It is the "capital," but the heart of a nation does not beat there. The Chinese nation can exist there, and frequently has existed, quite independent of Peking.

Moreover, the men who wrote the 21 demands are quite aware of those peculiar qualities of Chinese culture which enable it to absorb the invader as he comes along. That famed passivism of China is the passivism of a spoiled child. Buddhism, Hindu and Mongolian foreign religions and have been absorbed there. They came, they saw, they were swallowed. The idea of 50,000,000 islanders setting out to make good Japanese of 400,000,000 Chinese is beyond the vision of any realist in Japan. Nevertheless this is the sort of "conquest" which many Americans visualize when they fear, or hear of, someone else first being "conquered" of China by Japan. No wonder all parties in Japan deny that they have any such expectations. The last group of men in Japan likely to desire, and it is the last group, that wrote the 21 demands.

Conquest Without Armies. Conquest, however, is not always a matter of cannon and machine guns, and this group of men has had in mind the "conquest" of 21 demands themselves. First of all, Japan is to secure important (and exclusive) privileges in various parts of China. Her Government "shall first be consulted" regarding various questions in Southern Manchuria and Eastern Mongolia, also in the Province of Fukien, which is nowhere near Southern Manchuria. Eastern Mongolia, also, a good 700 miles to the south of them—an entirely different part of China.

In the second place, to guarantee such special privileges and pave the way for others in the future, there is to be an infiltration of "influential Japanese" as "advisers" to the Government of China. Even in the humble role of policeman "numerous Japanese" shall be employed. Finally, one faction in China is to be played off against another—lest any one of them grow strong enough to produce stability in the country, acquire power enough to repulse these salient from Japan. The policy is indicated partly in the 21 demands—even more clearly in the loans which the Japanese Government made to China.

Some 30 of the loans were made in 1918, the security usually being some railway, mine or industrial concern, strategically placed. They have subsequently been defended as being in the best interests of China. But it is significant that they were made secretly. And to a boy of 10 it would have been apparent that they were made at a time when they were certain to do more harm than good. For this reason:

As fast as Japanese money was received it went into the pockets of the "Yi-chuns" or military Government—those men who were to override all civil authority in China and do more than anyone else to keep the country in a state of anarchy. As Mr. Lamont of the American Consortium Group points out: "These men today constitute in China the real stumbling block to effective government." If the Japanese who made loans did not realize this situation and turned over millions of dollars without provision against its falling into the hands of the Yi-chuns, then they did not recognize facts which were obvious to verities far over them, then, when the war is over, rushes to trade with China. That is an assumption difficult to believe.

Follow Example Set by Europe. In fairness, it is worth noting that the men who directed Japan's policy in these matters do not necessarily constitute "Japan." Fifty men in positions of power and influence can sometimes sway a Government's policy in issues of this sort. They are not necessarily "Japan," these men, any more than a similar group in Paris is necessarily "France," or that group in our own land which wields the conquest of Mexico in "America."

In the second place, it must also be remembered that such a was on—Governments and peoples are more than usually capable of going off half-cocked. England, for instance, decided in 1915 to boycott Germany which she for years over them, when the war was over, rushes to trade with

SAGE TEA TURNS
GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied.
You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

TWO CHIROPRACTORS FINED
MINIMUM OF $50 BY JURIES

Policewoman Witness Against One Man—Charges of Practicing Without Medical License.

Two chiropractors were fined by juries in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday for practicing without a medical license. A minimum fine of $50 was assessed in each case.

Policewoman Alice Buckley testified that on June 29, she called on L.
H. Schwenker of 3522 Arsenal street and complained to him that she was unable to sleep. She said that following an X-ray examination of her spine, Schwenker diagnosed her case as liver and kidney trouble and told her that she would require a month's treatment that would cost her $25.
She paid $2 down, she said, but did not return for treatment.

Schwenker admitted that he had held himself out as a chiropractor and exhibited a diploma of graduation from a chiropractic school. He also admitted that he had no license from the State Board of Health to practice medicine.

Earlier in the day, Edward A.
Voight of 2229 South Broadway, a registered dentist and a chiropractor, was tried in connection with having treated John Biedermann,
17, of 714 Dwyer place, for deafness.
The latter's father testified that he had paid Voight $83.75 for a course of treatments and that Voight had returned the money, by agreement, when the boy showed no signs of improvement.

The State Board of Health is not authorized by statute to issue licenses to practice medicine to chiropractors. The punishment for practicing medicine without a license is a fine of from $50 to $500, or imprisonment in jail from 30 days to a year, or both fine and imprisonment.

Burglars Break Through Brick Wall.

Burglars knocked out a portion of a brick wall, making an opening about 14 inches square, to get into the Le James Woolen Co. store, 1617 Washington avenue, the firm reported to the police yesterday.
Listed in the stock taken are 130 bolts of silks, woolsens and serges on which an approximate value of $4000 was placed. Bolted goods valued at $1000 were reported stolen yesterday from the tailor shop of Max Jacobs, 306 North Jefferson avenue. A rear window was forced.

JAPAN SAID TO SEEK TO CONQUER CHINA BY TRADE

her. And it was during the war that the Government of Japan dispatched its 21 demands to China. With the rest of the world away at war, the obvious chance to improve the shining hour was no doubt tempting. Subsequently some of these demands have been withdrawn. (Though not withdrawn, to be sure, until there had been a world-wide protest against them.)

Finally, it should not be forgotten that Japan has had a pattern cut for her in China by the European Powers. Britain led the way almost 80 years ago by acquiring Hongkong as a prize of war. French finance has long claimed "sphere of influence" in South China. In 1897 Germany seized Kiaochow. A year later Russia took Port Arthur.

Not one of these European nations had as much justification as Japan for desiring power in China. Their own coasts were thousands of miles away and in no way menaced. Each one of them had markets elsewhere, easier access to supplies of raw materials. Not one of them was so imminently confronted with the problem of over-population.

Real Issue With United States.
The fact is that the other Powers had already "made their pile" in China before Japan was ready to begin. And it is that very fact which lies behind the most serious situation that can develop between Japan and the United States.

For in Japan the men who framed the 21 demands have their eyes fixed upon expansion into China. And in America, since the days of European conquest in China, there have developed as the keynotes of our Far Eastern policy the two principles of the open door and the integrity of China.

Here—and not in California, or in the question of "racial equality" or in direct acts of aggression by one nation or the other—lies the real possibility of conflict between the United States and Japan.

What can head it off is a change in the attitude of one nation or the other. Perhaps the United States will abandon or essentially modify its principles of the open door and the integrity of China—or, without abandoning them in theory, will see them sacrificed in practice rather than accept the alternative of forceful opposition. Consideration of American policy lies outside the scope of the present articles. But it is essential here to note certain points in respect to the policy of Japan.

By some observers it is asserted that the policy of Japan toward China has undergone a change. War—its psychology and temptations—is one thing. Peace is another. The day of the 21 demands is done. Various points are made in support of this conclusion. First, there are the circumstances surrounding Japan's acceptance of the "Consortium."

The Consortium—a federation of bankers in Great Britain, Japan and the United States—was formed several years ago to furnish financial aid to China and prevent the setting up of spheres of special influence on the Continent of Asia. At first the Japanese Government sought to exclude from the terms of the Consortium all rights and options held by Japan in the region of Manchuria and Mongolia, where Japan has special interests. This was in 1919. And the formula here adopted was reminiscent of certain phrasing in the 21 demands. A year later, however, the Japanese Government and the Japanese bankers withdrew their reservations, except concerning the financing of a few specifically mentioned railways, and entered the Consortium.

Less Oppression in Shantung.
In the second place, as evidence of a changed policy on Japan's part toward China, there is cited the improvement of conditions in Shantung.

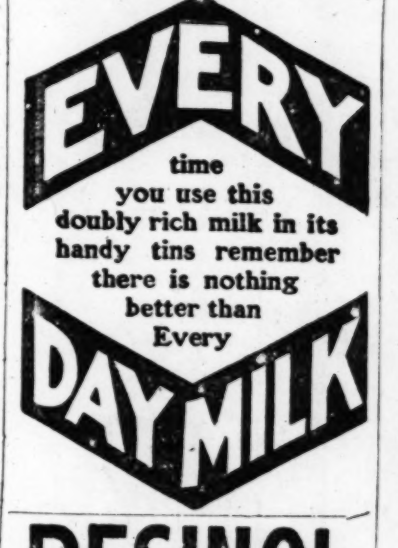

I visited Shantung in June of the present year. The Chinese in that province are still irreconcilable. They are convinced that Japan is there to stay. But their grievances against the actual administration of Japanese power are no longer so acute. I had heard stories of direct acts of aggression on the part of the Japanese, of arbitrary arrests and high-handed justice. Today, I think, there is far more effort on the part of all Japanese officials to conciliate Chinese opinion. Except for the general protest that Japan has no genuine moral right to be in Shantung at all, the chief complaints of Chinese in the province today are that Japan is consolidating its economic position and that certain Japanese officials are conniving in the introduction of opium, paying its way through the customs by labeling it as "military stores."

Finally, so far as the question of Japanese withdrawal from Shantung is concerned, there is no doubt that Japan's most recent proposal to China (September, 1921), goes beyond any proposal previously made. From the statement of terms made public by the Japanese embassy in Washington it is impossible to tell whether this latest offer, like the earlier ones, implies on China's part a recognition of the treaties signed at the time of the 21 demands. But the proposals concerning return of the leasehold of Kiaochow to China, the withdrawal of Japanese troops from the railways, etc., are direct and entirely explicit.

Japan's Policy May Change.
What is the conclusion to be drawn? Such evidence as is supplied by Japan's final acceptance of the Consortium, by the increasing liberality of her administration in Shantung, by the extent of her latest proposal to China—these things neither prove nor fail to prove that Japan's policy toward China has changed. What they do demonstrate is that it is capable of changing.

We Blended Palm and Olive Oils To beautify your hair

This free 15-cent trial bottle contains ample quantity for one luxurious shampoo, no matter how heavy your hair. Use it and watch results.

See how soft it makes your hair, and how fluffy. Admire the attractive, well-groomed gloss.

Notice how clean it leaves your scalp, how all scurf and dandruff are completely removed. Ordinary shampooing doesn't get these results. They are due to palm and olive oils.

Softening cleansers
Olive oil possesses softening qualities which neutralize the drying effects of washing. Palm oil contributes body, richness and lasting qualities.

In combination they produce a thick, mild, profuse, penetrating lather which softens the scalp and reaches every root and hair cell.

This lather loosens the dandruff scales, dislodges and dissolves them, leaving the scalp and hair free to function healthfully.

Prevents Baldness
This thorough removal of dandruff, which doctors call seborrhea, is most necessary, as even the accumulation on healthy scalps injures the hair.

The dry, oily scales clog the roots of the hair, preventing proper nutrition. Soon the hair begins to fall out. Ordinary washing has little effect, often seeming to make the condition worse.

The blend of palm and olive oils you get in Palmolive softens and penetrates the scales, loosening the cap-like accumulation.

Gentle massage forces it into the tissues of the scalp, leaving it healthfully purged and clean.

Silky texture and satiny gloss
Such scientific shampooing is the basis of beauty, for it keeps both hair and scalp in perfect health.

It stimulates circulation, which carries proper nourishment to your hair. It regulates the minute oil glands which give your hair gloss and luster. Hair shampooed with Palmolive is neither brittle nor oily, but soft, glossy and silky.

Present the coupon at once and prove that these statements are true. One shampoo with the blend of palm and olive oils begins the transformation.

15c TRIAL BOTTLE FREE

Present this coupon, with your name and address filled in, to any druggist. It is good for a 15-cent trial bottle of Palmolive Shampoo.

Ruth Case Viewed As Important Test Of Owners' Rights

Cardinal President and Manager Apparently Believe Time Has Come to Settle Question.

CONTRACTS COVER POINT

Players in Signing, Agree to Submit to Discipline of the High Commissioner.

Ruth's Punishment for Violating Rules Not Yet Fixed by Landis

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Babe Ruth is facing a heavy fine or suspension for violating the laws of baseball. That much was gathered today from Judge Landis, High Commissioner of baseball, on his return from New York. He has not decided on the punishment to be meted out to the slugger.

"You believe in the strict enforcement of the rules of the game," the judge was asked. "Positively, and without the slightest regard for the size of the hat the man in question wears," he replied.

"Did you refuse to talk to Ruth on the telephone and deliberately hang up on him twice?" Landis was asked.

"Did he say that?" I notified him two weeks ago that the rules of baseball prohibited the world's series contestants from participating in barnstorming exhibitions. That is all I care to say now until I make a decision, when I shall show in my statement what sort of a gentleman he is."

Sam Breadon, Branch Rickey, Hilary Mason and Clarence Lloyd, who constitute the Cardinals' office personnel, from president to secretary, yesterday discussed the controversy between Babe Ruth and Judge Landis, caused by the slugger's violation of organized baseball's rule against world's series players' participation in post-season games. Numerous possibilities were brought out in discussion, but all agreed that the case might bring to a decision a question which long has been a pestiferous insect in the club owners' midst. That is the question of the owners' jurisdiction over players during the off season, and just how far the managers may go without interfering with the constitutional rights of the players.

Breadon and Rickey both said they thought the situation might develop into a serious matter, but both apparently thought the time had come to decide whether the club owner had rights sufficient to permit him to protect, by disciplinary measures, the thousands of dollars of assets represented in the playing ability of stars.

Class Legislation?

The question was raised as to whether it was right to penalize a man who finished high in his league by barring him from exhibition games, while tail-enders might romp as they pleased in barnstorming tours. This brought the answer that the players who participated in world series received enormous pay for their victory and their extra work in the series and should be willing to give up the possible fruits of barnstorming; should leave that extra change for less fortunate brothers.

Rickey said the Ruth case depended entirely on what Judge Landis decided to do. If the judge imposed a fine of small proportions, it might all blow over. On the other hand, if he should suspend Ruth, there might be more serious developments, with the possibility of legal entanglements.

Contract Favors Judge.

Mason flashed a player's contract, such as is generally used in the major leagues, and pointed out a clause which says:

"The player submits himself to the discipline of the commissioner and agrees to accept his decisions rendered pursuant to the Major League Agreement."

This, Mason asserted, covered the Ruth case. He said all contracts, whether they contained the 10-day clause or not, included a clause to this effect.

Breadon and Rickey said they had granted permission to their players to engage in exhibition games, but it was plain that they had not done this willingly. The reason for this is that the players who participated in tours are usually without a firm hand in charge, discipline is lax, the tour is nothing more than a pleasure jaunt and there is danger of injury and other misfortunes, besides the acquiring of bad habits.

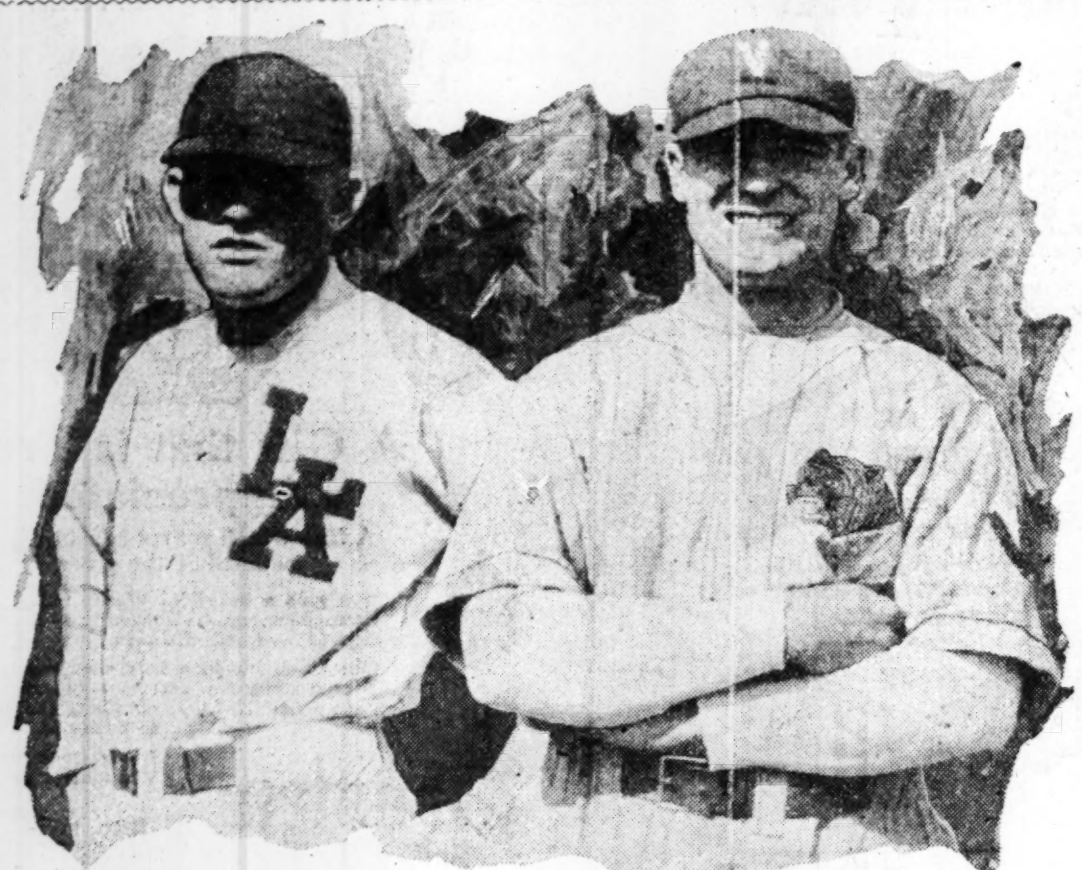

Breadon said he was sure the question of barnstorming would come up at the next meeting of the league owners and that he felt there was a widespread desire to do away with the barnstorming practice.

Sisler and Hornsby Playing. Two St. Louis stars are managing teams in the California Winter League. Hornsby is leading Los Angeles and Sisler is in charge at Vernon. Ty Cobb is the Frisco leader, with Harry Hellmann managing the Athletics.

The winter league season will cover 10 weeks and the players, it is said, will be paid at the same rate as their major league salaries. There also will be a purse of $3000 for which the two leading teams will play in one week of post-season games.

Breadon and Rickey expressed

Hornsby and Sisler in Minor League Uniforms

One of the freaks of baseball is the anomalous situation of major league stars now that the major league season has closed. Where as Babe Ruth is facing suspension and fine for violating a rule prohibiting world's series players from barnstorming, Sisler, Hornsby, Cobb and Hellmann are now MANAGING and playing for clubs in the California Winter League, and are doing it within the law. Furthermore, the players are hired for 10 weeks at the rate called for by their major league contracts.

A clause in all players' contracts states that, in signing, each player agrees not to participate in any form of athletic contests after the regular baseball season without the consent of his club. Thus Sisler and Hornsby, who shared in the world's series money as members of third place teams, are allowed to play after the season, while Ruth is prohibited from doing so, by their major league contracts.

The Browns, Cardinals and Tigers' owners gave their consent to their star batters reluctantly. Fear of rendering their players sulky by refusing probably induced the owners to sanction the minor league activities of the sluggers.

The coach is unable to decide who will be in his backfield Saturday, but if the shift of Egler to quarterback goes through and works smoothly during practice sessions the selection of Bruce, Gerraghty and either Todd or Horton is the most likely. Todd played a very consistent game last week and showed that he is one of the few Billikens who know how to form proper interference.

Earlier Starting Time. Assistant Coach O'Brien of the De Paul team looked over the Billiken-Milwaukee game Saturday and after the game had a conference with Coach O'Rourke and requested that the game next Saturday be started earlier than 3 o'clock in order that the team could catch the 4:30 train. O'Rourke agreed to the change.

O'Brien said, after he had witnessed the Blue and White rally in the second half, "A team which can fight like that, is always dangerous."

Coach O'Rourke announced that in the future the gates of Sportsman's Park would be closed to the public during practice. Arrangements have been made to allow the students of the university to witness one practice a week.

GIBBONS-O'DOWD MATCH. WITH $27,000 ADVANCE SALE, MOVED TO TULSA. WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 18.—The Mike Gibbons and O'Dowd, middleweight title aspirants, their trainers, and even the Wichita Athletic Club promoters, were preparing to move on to Tulsa, today, following the ruling of the Court that the bout as proposed was not legal under Kansas laws. All the arrested persons, the fighters, promoters and referee, were released yesterday, after putting up small bonds to keep the peace.

Arrangements were concluded yesterday to hold the bout in Tulsa, next Tuesday.

The match already had an advance sale of $27,000, which will apply on the Tulsa show; and, as Tulsa is keenly interested, the promoters expect a $100,000 gate. They need it, for Gibbons, it developed today, has been guaranteed $20,000 and O'Dowd $15,000.

Immediately after the court proceedings yesterday, both Mike Collins, manager of Gibbons, and Paddy Mullens, who looks after O'Dowd, demanded and received $5000 to guarantee them against further disappointment.

The loser will be entitled to a battle with Fred Allen.

Kaiser Outdances Veteran Zulu Kid

Unwillingness of Brooklyn Bantam to Mingle, Makes Memphis Bout a Tame One.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 18.—Johnny Peewee Kaiser of St. Louis shadow boxed eight rounds for the edification of the Memphis fight folk last night and did a good job of it. The shadow in front of the Peewee was the veteran Zulu Kid of Brooklyn. Referee Billy Haack awarded Kaiser the decision for his efforts.

That Zulu was there at the finish might have been due to the timidity of Kaiser, and then it might have been due to the over-carefulness of Joe Levy, who advised and directed Kaiser from the corner. In every round after the fourth Kaiser staggered Zulu with a right to the chin, but showed no inclination to follow up his advantage. However, Kaiser's seconds kept yelling "Be careful," when he was in no more danger of being harmed than if fending a baby.

The Zulu Kid's efforts were apparently honest, but at times pitiful. He waddled around with his fat little frame shaking like a ball of jelly and especially when Kaiser socked him on the chops with a right.

It takes two to make a fight, and it might have been a fight had Kaiser had any competition. The Zulu may still be a "Zulu," if that means anything, but it has been many years since he was a kid, and a modern fighter.

Rickey suggested it would be well to cut prices, but only if the series could be lengthened. He said he would prefer to see the championship decided in 11 or 15 games than in seven.

Breadon and Rickey both brought forth the argument that if St. Louis should win a pennant the public should be entitled to witness more than three games, which might be a maximum for one city in case of seven-game series.

Cleveland Opponent of Local Lightweight Bears a Fine Reputation.

The management of the Angelica Athletic Club, which holds its boxing shows in the Coliseum, announced today that the next festive feature would be held Nov. 8, with Harry Kabakoff of St. Louis and Artie Root of Cleveland as the principals. The bout is scheduled to go 15 rounds, at 128 pounds.

Root is a widely-known scrapper, who has fought the very best men of his weight division in the country, including Johnny Kilbane and Willie Jackson. His bout with Kilbane attracted a $28,000 gate. Kilbane outpointed him by a shade.

However, cheer up, Branch, it never has happened yet.

Billikens' Coach Shifts Players to Strengthen Line

Gains Made Off Tackle in Milwaukee Game Indicated Weakness, O'Rourke Says.

A shakeup which will affect every position of the St. Louis University line, with the exception of George Kalkman, was predicted by Coach Steve O'Rourke of the Billikens yesterday. O'Rourke was dissatisfied with the showing made by the various linemen who participated in the Milwaukee game and has several shifts in mind. Gerraghty, who played a great game at center, may be shifted to right-half back, and Kalkman will play center on the offensive and guard on the defense.

"The gains made on off-tackle plays by the Milwaukee Engineers plainly shows the weakness of our line," said O'Rourke. "I do not know just what change I will make, but I certainly will shift my players during the week so that this weakness may be corrected."

Egler to Direct Play. Another change contemplated by the blue and white mentor is the shifting of Clarence Egler, the fleet-footed halfback, to the quarterback position. Egler's only weakness is a lack of aggressiveness. He has a good head for the directing of the team's field maneuvers, and the coach believes that if a bit of fight is instilled into him he will be the solution of the greatest source of worry the Billikens have had to contend with this season. This shift would dovetail with the moving of Gormley to the backfield.

The Billikens came out of the Saturday struggle without serious injuries, although several received painful bruises.

The coach is unable to decide who will be in his backfield Saturday, but if the shift of Egler to quarterback goes through and works smoothly during practice sessions the selection of Bruce, Gerraghty and either Todd or Horton is the most likely. ## Pikers to Oppose Sooner Eleven at Norman, Saturday

Oklahoma Team Will Outwardly Stand—All Remain Games to Be at Home.

With a victory and a defeat in their Missouri Valley Conference standing, Coach George Riker's Piker warriors went through spirited practice yesterday in preparation for their battle Saturday with Oklahoma University at Norman.

This will be the first conference game for the Sooners, who defeated the Oklahoma Aggies last week by a score of 6 to 0. The Mustangs defeated the Aggies 21 to 0 several weeks ago, which may indicate the relative strength of the two teams.

Freshman Coach Davis, who coached the Sooner's victory, reported that Coach Owens has a hunch that the Pikers will be a hasty defeat. The Oklahoma team will be led by the Pikers by about 5 points to the man and, in addition to the advantage in weight, the Pikers have a team composed entirely of veterans. 17 letter men having been reported for action this fall.

The lineup which opposed the Aggies and which will probably appear against the Pikers, follows: Right end; Bailey, left tackle; Kinley, left guard; Hann, center; Cullen, right guard; Edmonds, right tackle; Haskell, right halfback; Hendrick, quarterback; Morrison, fullback; Hill, left half; Tyler, (captain), right half. Of the men who played last Saturday, Hill, left half, was the outstanding player. He was fast and is regarded by Oklahoma followers as the star of the outfit.

Barring accidents in practice this week, the Pikers should present the strongest front of the season Saturday. Long, Rider, 200-pound tackle, who was out of the game several weeks because of injury, has entirely recovered and made the full route against the Sooner Wilbur played two quarters against Grinnell, but was taken out of the fray to insure his presence in the coming game. Leo Shanley has recovered from his kick in the head and was out booting the leather around the field yesterday.

Good Substitute Punter.

However, the absence of Shanley in the Grinnell game showed Coach Rider two things that may give him some relief if the star end is again on the sick list. One is that Leo Sarason, who replaced Leo, can be depended on to play the position with credit, and the other is that "Baldy" Thurner can be relied on to do the booting. Leo usually goes more distance out of his punts than does his teammate, but in Saturday's game "Baldy" gave an exhibition of booting that was one of the features of the victory. Long's return to the lineup also means that the Piker will get more out of their kicker as Wilbur excels in this form of propelling the leather.

The Piker squad, numbering about 20, will depart Thursday night for Norman. This will mark the Piker's final out-of-town appearance, as all the remaining games will be at home.

Canadian Challenger Picked.

By the Associated Press.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 15.—The Canadian challenger for the international fishing vessel trophy in the races against the Gloucester (Mass.) schooner Elsie, beginning next Sunday, was determined yesterday when the Lunenburg schooner Blue Nose won the second elimination race off this port. At the same time the Blue Nose won the Canadian fishermen's championship and first prize of $1000.

Epsom Salts Like Lemonade

A few cents buys a handy package of "Epsom Salts" which looks and tastes exactly like lemonade because it is real epsom salts combined with a derivative salt, giving it the taste of sparkling lemonade.

A tablespoonful in a glass of cold water whenever you feel bilious, head-achy or constipated, will give you a splendid epsom salts physic without the awful taste and nausea. "Epsom Salts" is the much talked of discovery of the American Epsom Association.

LA PALINA

The Quality Cigar

Since 1896

Remember Its Imported Java Wrapper

THE Senator is the biggest selling two for a quarter cigar in America. It wins hosts of new friends every day among the smoke-wise. You won't wonder why when you light this appealing La Palina.

You'll be won by its rich, rare aroma, fascinating flavor and inimitable blend of the two most expensive tobaccos—imported Java leaf wrapper and selected Vuelta Abajo Havana filler.

The Magnolia is the ideal after-dinner cigar when you want a long, supremely satisfying smoke.

Ask your cigar man today for a Senator, 2 for 25c, or for a Magnolia, 15c.

EL PRODUCTO

for real enjoyment

We can't be sure that YOU will like El Producto. But most smokers, who like a cigar with a real Havana bouquet, DO.

WELL promise you this, however. If you do like El Producto, you'll like it a lot. And you'll never find another cigar to take its place.

The distinctive El Producto blend, that's rich but not heavy, cannot be bought in any other cigar at any price.

Here's a sporting proposition: Try an El Producto. If it doesn't make good and then some, never buy an El Producto. If it does—You can get that same El Producto blend in many sizes from 10 to 30 cents.

RUTH WILL NOT APPEAL FROM LANDIS DECISION, ONE REPORT QUOTES HIM

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Reports from Elmira, N. Y., where Babe Ruth's barnstorming aggregation played yesterday, quote the Bambino as saying he would attempt no appeal. "In case Judge Landis sees fit to rule us out of baseball for the remainder of our lives," but that he believed, in violating the post-season rule, he was merely following a precedent set by other major league stars of former years.

Sold with the Maker's Adjustment Guarantee

These are all fresh, new, smart looking Tires shipped direct from the factory, perfect in every respect and guaranteed by the maker for 8000 miles on cords and 6000 miles on fabrics, adjustments to be made at the prevailing list prices.

After exhaustive tests we found these A. T. C. TIRES to be made of the best rubber, compound and cotton obtainable, properly cured and frictioned, and we can thoroughly recommend them to our patrons.

These Are Without Doubt the Best Tire Values Offered in St. Louis This Year to Our Knowledge

Our great purchasing power and the manufacturer's need for a quick turnover of his stock gave us a price advantage by which you may now profit to an unusual extent. And to buy a full supply will certainly be the wise thing to do, for, with the rise in rubber and cotton, it is doubtful if as good a Tire can be duplicated at the price.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Why the Distress?

WHEN H. Rider Haggard, the famous English novelist, visited America some years ago he was on a transcontinental train bound for California, and when outside of Ogden, Utah, the conductor signaled for a stop. On inquiring, Haggard was told that a tramp had secreted himself on the trucks beneath the car and they were stopping the train to "ditch" him.

"I have heard a lot of your American tramps," said Haggard, "bring him in. I would like to meet him."

The tramp took the introduction very easily and surprised everyone present by his knowledge of literature generally and Haggard's work in particular. Haggard was asked afterward what he thought of our American tramp. "That man was no tramp," he said; "he is a gentleman in distress."

The above type of gentleman is common in the big cities of America. I met one of them the other day and I asked him, "Why the distress?" "Our educational system is all wrong," he said. "I had the advantage of a high school education," he went on, "and when I finished I thought the world was awaiting me with bread and butter. Imagine my surprise when my first prospective employer offered me a salary of $1.00 a week. I reminded him that I was a high school graduate, but he also reminded me that I knew nothing whatever about his factory."

"The result was that I took a job of common labor because it paid a little more like a living wage, and I have been doing common labor from Maine to California ever since. I roam from one coast to the other in search of a better life, something better and not because of the wanderlust or my desire to travel, but because I lack special knowledge or skill to give my services any permanent value."

"I believe there would be less of my type if the high schools of our 'great land of opportunity' would teach vocations instead of a lot of useless things that graduates are forced to learn and never use. Let them find out what a student is best fitted for, give him a thorough training in that particular thing, and he will have a trade-mark when he faces the world's production value will be a thousand times greater; he will be worth more to the community and himself and he will know no distressful periods."

Gravels Road.

Is the city contemplating the widening of Gravels from Russell Grand? If so I think it is an outrageous thing at this time, or any other time, to tear houses down and good ones, too. It's not only this, but who will explain where all the people that live on Gravels would move to? Everybody knows about the shortage of houses. For working people the shortage is worse right now than it was two years ago. There are houses for rent, and with low wages and families unable to buy a home the result will be unfortunate. Now if all property-holders get together on this Gravels project they ought to knock it out.

Watching the Fare Box.

I AM an ardent daily and Sunday reader of the Post-Dispatch and hope you will find space in your "Letters from the People" page for the following letter:

"U. R. Fares Fall Off 1,750,000 Last Month."

The decrease in the U. R.'s revenue is charged to unemployment. There are other reasons.

When one observes how some people, especially during the rush hours, deposit but a fraction of their fare in the fare box; or, when one sees daily how scores of people, especially women, go to town on, for instance, a Hodiament or Natural Bridge car, transfer onto the Walston, or vice versa, do their shopping or any other business downtown, and return home on the transfer, thus getting the service of two fares for one; or, when one sees the number of half fare passengers who ought to pay full fare—when one sees all this it is no surprise to him to learn that the street railway company's revenues are falling.

Siberia.

ALLOW me to congratulate you on the timely editorial of "The American Siberia."

The editorial is a frank denunciation of the so-called "Industrial Democracy" instituted in the great manufacturing enterprises of our nation.

The steel industry is only one of many I have witnessed virtually the same conditions in the flour mills.

The work is as strenuous and pays about as cheap a wage as can be found. We have been told to put our nose to the grindstone and to protect our meal ticket for this winter. Isn't that what they tell 'em in Siberia?

AMERICAN.

THE PRESS MUST BE FREE.

Judge Fisher's decision in the $10,000,000 libel suit of the City of Chicago against the Chicago Tribune is a sweeping assertion of the right and duty of newspapers to keep the public fully informed of the conduct of the Government and of public officials and to criticize official and governmental acts which in its opinion are detrimental to the public welfare.

The judicial opinion is such a clear and comprehensive statement of the functions of a newspaper as the guardian of public interests and the instrument by which the public is kept informed of all things necessary to enlightened opinion and judgment on the conditions of society and governmental acts, that it ought to be universally read by the people. The Judge forcefully defines the right of the newspapers to publish all facts bearing upon the public welfare and to comment upon them for the purpose of informing and directing public opinion and thus uniting and crystallizing it for action against the bad and for the good.

The only conditions which govern the liberty of the press are the honesty and sincerity of its purpose and the conscientious and reasonable care exercised by the newspaper in ascertaining the truth and expressing its own opinion. The object must be the public welfare and never the injury of the public official whose conduct is subject to exposure and criticism or detraction of the administration whose acts are condemned. While the Judge's comments upon the functions of newspapers are highly interesting and instructive, a few paragraphs on the main point at issue show the scope of the decision:

Stripped of all the elaborate argument in the confusion of which the question for decision might look difficult, the fact remains that, if this action is maintainable, then public officials have in their power one of the most effective instruments with which to intimidate the press and to silence their enemies. It is a weapon to be held over the head of everyone who dares to print or speak unfavorably of the men in power.

The freedom of speech and the press was at the very inception of our Government, regarded as indispensable to a free state. While good reason exists for denying a publisher the right to print that which he cannot prove against an individual, and recklessly to pry into his personal affairs, defaming his character and reputation, no reason exists for restraining the publication against a municipality or other governmental agency, of such facts, which, as Judge Taft puts it, it is well that the public should know, even if it lies hidden from judicial investigation.

The Chicago suit differs from previous suits of this character in that it was brought in behalf of a municipality as a whole as representing the interest of citizens and not by a public official. The courts have sustained the rights of the press to publish facts bearing upon official conduct and to comment thereon with reason and sincerity and the decision establishes its right to criticize municipalities and all other governmental agencies whenever in its opinion the public welfare requires it.

Judge Fisher's able exposition of the functions of the press as a public guardian and his assertion of its freedom to publish facts and express opinions concerning governmental policies and conditions and official acts is peculiarly timely and valuable in view of the efforts during and since the war to muzzle and control the newspapers. He points out the danger attending any attempt to gag or intimidate the press.

THE CHURCH'S COLORED SUPPLEMENT.

The New York preacher who sprayed his church with a variety of colors in order, as he says, "to induce the congregational mood" has taken a leaf from the theater—a book which the pulpit has often consulted. It is well known, too, that medicine recognizes the effect of color on temperament, though it may not have gone so far or wisely in that direction as it possibly could.

An interesting study of the relation of color to mood is offered by the poets. The gray and gold elegance of Rossetti might well be the subject of an essay. Kipling during his long Imperial incarnation was forever splashing red. There is still comfort to be found in the lace-and-lavender gentleness of Longfellow, melancholy in Lanier's weird browns and dying yellows, uneasiness as well as delight in Swinburne's hectic tones, sheer unhappiness in Poe's grisly

IT'S EITHER A MIGHTY BIG ORDER OR A VERY SMALL MAN.

tints, while Browning, without the use of the brush, unfolds many a landscape of bright, reassuring green.

If the poets can play so effectively upon our emotions with colors why may not the preachers? If music can romp the chromatic scale from the ineffable blue of a MacDowell melody to the black despair with which Tschakowsky drapes his country's agony, the New York preacher's experiment seems justified.

Admittedly the New York preacher is utilizing a different color medium from that of the poets and musicians who squeeze their effects from the tubes of imagination. He is a realist who is attempting to enlist the aid of science in appeals. He is doing his best within his limitations, is he not? Introducing, as it were, the colored supplement into the church.

PROPOSED INCREASE IN WATER RATES.

The annual report of Water Commissioner Wall urges an increase of 10 per cent in flat and general meter rates in order to meet the plant extensions which will be necessary if the average increase in consumption for the last 20 years is maintained. The chances are that this increase will be accelerated.

A review of expenses and revenue shows that, without the proposed rate increase, there will not be sufficient money on hand to pay for the new pump and main which will be needed in 1923. Meanwhile, if the city grows industrially as it is expected to do, the present plant will be inadequate for the city's needs by 1926, when its capacity will have to be greatly enlarged.

That the proposed increase in water prices may meet opposition is discounted by the report, which recites, with justifiable pride, that "the water rates in effect today are less than in 1912-13." Figures are given as to operating and maintenance costs, together with other details, to prove that this extraordinary exception to the almost universal rule of increased prices during the last eight years is the result of superior managerial efficiency.

The report apparently raises a question as to the best plan for financing the water works—that is, whether the money should be provided by higher rates, as this report proposes, or whether we should wait until extensions are needed and vote the necessary bonds. The latter method, obviously, would carry the risk of an adverse verdict, though such risk would have to be regarded as slight in view of the fact that an abundant water supply must be had.

The latest campaign is for the suppression of prohibition jokes. The next will be for the suppression of jokes on the suppression of prohibition jokes.

A PHILANTHROPIC DELUGE.

Whether the soul of society is being lost in a tidal wave of selfishness as the sermonists charge all depends on one's interpretation of events. To accept the word of interests contributing to current news and literature we are being overwhelmed with philanthropy. Here, for instance, is a lumber dealer who testifies in the suit of the State against the St. Louis Lumber Trade Exchange, that the purpose of the organization was to put an end to short measure, fraudulent substituting of grades and other unethical practices of dealers. Could anything be more obvious than the benefits thus intended to be conferred on the consumer?

And here is the majority report of the Manufacturers' Committee of the National Conference on Unemployment which recommends, for the sake of the dear unemployed, the repeal of the Adamson eight-hour law and the enactment of a protective tariff "embracing such rates of duty as may properly safeguard the prosperity of employer and employee," while it urges that "every element in our citizenship should frankly set its face against a group, whether in agriculture, business, labor or transportation, that selfishly undertakes to resist necessary economic adjustment in any narrow endeavor to protect its personal interests at the expense of the permanent betterment of our national life."

There are cynics, of course, who will charge that, in words of easy syllables, this pronouncement means that every patriot and friend of the unemployed should take a crack at any labor organization resisting wage reductions. But the cynics, like the poor, are always with us. Fortunately they cannot sour the syrup of philanthropy in which our society so happily finds itself engulged.

IS THIS THE ONLY COURT OF APPEAL?

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH

SOMEONE who has been looking backward tells us that in 1880 Civil War prices had receded only 50 per cent. Probably that is a good illustration of the speed at which reconstruction went on, but the next century cannot be like the last. We will have slain one another with deadly gases before 1950. Sic em, Br'er! Your country needs you.

How would it do to see who can get the greatest variety of values out of life, or who can give children the training best serving their own lives and the purposes of society? At any rate, there must be a change. The next century cannot be like the last. We will have slain one another with deadly gases before 1950. Sic em, Br'er! Your country needs you.

HOW THE "INDUSTRY" ORIGINATED.

(Editorial From The Still-at-Home.)

As we all know, Federal prohibition has been the making of our industry, in this: that while it could cut off the supply from old, large-unit sources of production, it could not abate the demand for intoxicating liquor because it could not abolish the desire for it. That is ages old and looks to be deeply rooted in human nature. The opportunity thus presented was exceptional in rare degree and boundless measure. Here was a great nationwide market afloat, with the sky bending to the heated sands of the desert and every mirage throwing in high relief the maddening call.

Could that unhappy state, that torturing outlook, last? Hardly. Nothing is ever quite so bad as it appears to be at first blush; Nature has attempted to that in providing us with the unreplicable law of compensation, or offset. The desert has its oases and its cold nights; the equilibrium between atmospheric cold and heat cannot be upset by the vagaries of a season's temperature; more rain this year, and less to follow; excessive effort, and greater the exhaustion. But the point of it all for radicals is that one extreme begets another, and that the force of reaction must be of a strength and volume to counterbalance the original force, any statute to the contrary notwithstanding.

So it was natural that our people should yield to the temptation that national prohibition had provided. They are worldly, and not overly strong in the spirit. From their practical, red-blooded viewpoint they could not see why it should not be any man's natural constitutional right to drink a glass of whisky, wine or beer if he wished to do so, provided he should behave himself and observe the law with respect to nuisances. Much less could they see how one's drinking could even by the wildest stretch of the imagination, disturb the peace and security of distant strangers wholly unaware of his habits, or even his presence on earth.

And as, morally speaking, the producer and seller are no more culpable than the drinker of law-sanctioned private stocks of liquor, or the legalized maker-drinker of farm household wines, other things being equal, conscience could be hardly expected to outweigh the allurements of opportunity in a market so hedged about with protection against foreign competition and all known sources of production previously supplying it, as to offer our adventurous trade virtually a monopoly of the demand. The sales along to this time have been limited only by the lack of facilities incident to equipping the industry for adequate production. This work is naturally time-consuming; and meanwhile the call for new goods keeps on increasing, partly in consequence of the steady depletion of old stocks.

ENCOURAGING FOR REFORMERS.

The Standard Theater, the Home of Folly, Two Polite Daily, is among the missing in action in St. Louis. Elvie Cadie, who spent last week down there, knows why it had to quit its foolishness and go to work. It was because its patrons could see as much free of charge on any corner on a calm day as they could see for a dollar at the Standard, says Elvie, while on a windy day they could see more. In other words, Old Sam, Theater, was out of business at St. Louis. St. Louis reformers had been unable to do to a generation. Please put this in your pipes and smoke it, you foes of short skirts and rolled hoosiers.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

IMMIGRATION.

WE will repeat what we have often said. The wholesale shutting out of worthy immigration is a base injustice in the abstract sense and a distinct loss to the country, practically. Denying immigration is a valuable advantage to a country. A sane and thorough sifting of the kind of immigrants that come into this country is to be approved. The country's energy should be directed, not against the numbers of the immigrants, but against the quality of those who seek to enter this land, which once was so hospitable to the deserving and oppressed. We do not want the undesirable. We do not want the radical, the insane, the diseased. We do not want the criminals, the exploiters and the temporary adventurers, but we DO want the honest, the thrifty, the industrious, the thrifty husband, the son of fathers who will come to help build up our land and develop its resources, which it needs so much. Further restriction of immigration viewed from this angle, is a crime against humanity as well as to America. It inflicts both on applicants who seek these shores and our own States as well. A further restriction of immigration is a narrow-minded, narrow-sighted policy that must react to the serious disadvantage of our country now and in the future.

NORTHCLIFFE'S WAR TALK.

From the Charleston News and Courier.
LORD NORTHCLIFFE has been talking to the Australians in a way to interest not only the British but also the Japanese. The latter, indeed, were inclined, one would think, to make much of a somewhat forcible way their interest in Northcliffe's remarks. He has told the Australians most in so many words, that if they do not make a care Japan is going to come and take over the country. If the Australians need waking up, regard to the possibility of a conquest of Japan by Japan, it might be Northcliffe's duty to do as he did. But it is doubtful whether they are waking up. On the whole, it seems a pity that stirring distrust and enmity among the people of the world just at this time. The way to peace lies through the hearts of men, and the hearts of men are hardy the way that he chooses rather the way of accommodation and arrangement. There has to be accommodation and arrangement on a grand scale if a great struggle of the nations two or three decades from now is to be averted, and an effort is shortly to be made to bring about such an accommodation, the success of that effort is partly dependent on Japan's attitude; and it does not seem a wise thing to wave red flags in front of Japan's face upon the very eve of that effort.

DISARMAMENT.

From L'Italia of San Francisco.
THERE are many skeptical persons who think that the men who hold the destinies of the world in their hands and who have been invited to attend the conference at Geneva, know full well that this conference is a failure, without any practical result, and that they have been compelled to accept the situation for the sake of external appearances. They know that the question is serious and difficult, and that it will not be easy to arrive at a solution, but nevertheless, there is one thing that they are sure of, and that is, that they will make it compulsory for every Government to be present at the conference, and that they will ask the consent of the people by means of a popular vote before drafting any man into military service and before constructing any vessels or purchasing any implements of war. It is certain that the people of every land will vote negatively on these questions. In this way, disarmament would be automatically and completely accomplished.

The Merry Little Breezes Arrive Late.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
You often find when there's no one else around that some people are possessed by green.

Old Mother West Wind is a queer old woman. She believes that the best way to get up in the morning is by the time jolly, round, red sun kicks off his rosy blankets. She begins her daily climb up the blue sky, Old Mother West Wind usually is on her way down from the purple hills with her big bag, which are her children, the Merry Little Breezes.

On this particular morning she emptied the Merry Little Breezes out of her big bag on the Green Meadows. "Jack Frost was around last night," said she, "so hurry over to the Green Forest to shake down the nuts for the little people there. I have a great deal of work of my own to do, so I must leave this for you."

"Yes'm," cried the Merry Little Breezes all together, and started to dance away across the Green Meadows toward the Green Forest. But the Merry Little Breezes are much like other little people, in that they forget easily and put things off. One of them discovered Johnny Chuck sitting on his doorstep, and at once he became the center of their rumple hair and pull his whiskers and ask him questions about when he would go to sleep for the winter, and if he expected to sleep right straight through without waking, and if he ever had dreams when he was asleep that day.

Then they discovered Ruddy Fox trying to catch Danny Meadow Mouse, and at once hurried over to tease Ruddy, by carrying his scolding to Danny, so that Danny might not be caught. After this they danced over to call on Digger the Badger, to see if he was as grumpy as usual. And by this time they had quite forgotten the nut trees over in the Green Forest.

Now, all this time over in the Green Forest certain people were growing very impatient and certain other people were chuckling to themselves. The impatient ones were Mother Bear and the twins, and the chuckling ones were Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel and his smaller cousin Chatterer the Red Squirrel, and the bigger cousin, Rusty the Fox Squirrel. They all remember that Mother Bear had told them the nuts on the beech trees in the night so as to be on hand the very first thing in the morning. She meant to be right on the spot just as soon as it was light enough to see the tops of the sweet brown little beechnuts.

She was, but there were two very sweet, brown, little beechnuts that picked up. You see they were still clinging to the little husks in the night. The Merry Little Breezes had opened in the night with his hard fingers. They must be shaken down before they could be picked up and eaten by the Bears. And with the coming of the first Jolly Little Breeze, the husks had fallen off, and the nuts and the three squirrel cousins and the Grouse family, all eager for sweet, brown, little beechnuts. You see, all knew that Jack Frost had been around the night before. "The husks fell off because his white breath covered the grass and the bushes and the trees when they first popped out of bed that morning. And they knew that when he first comes the husks of the nuts do not pinch open, but they do because his white breath had wasted any time in getting over to the beech trees that morning."

But now only the squirrel cousins were wholly happy. They could and did climb the trees and pick the nuts out of their husks, and chuckled and chuckled at the long faces turned toward them. They knew what would happen when the Merry Little Breezes arrived. They knew that all these little nuts would be shaken down to the ground and that it would be a scramble for them. The squirrel cousins—Happy Jack, Chatterer and Rusty—were rather tickled to have the Merry Little Breezes so late. They were greedy. They wanted all these nuts for themselves.

But waiting and waiting down low, Mother Bear first grew impatient and then cross. And still the Merry Little Breezes failed to come. (Copyright, 1921, by T. W. Burgess.)

CUCUMBER RELISH

The Merry Little Breezes Are Late.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
You often find when there's no need and people are possessed by greed.
—Mother Bear.

Old Mother West Wind is an early start a day right is to get up early.

So by the time jolly, round, red Mr.

THE SPORTING CHANCE

A Story In Three Installments
By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON.
(Copyright, 1921.)

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

NOW, Mr. Crumley hadn't the faintest desire to marry her. He was not above admiring her in a passing sort of way when she slid by him timorously in that fetching pelvic—not always succeeding in her well-meant efforts to hide her bare feet—him as for marrying her, or anyone else—well, it simply never entered his head. It was not until Harold tackled him for the loan of a dollar one evening that he awoke to his danger. Harold promised to repay him as soon as he could get a job. Mr. Crumley mildly observed that that was likely to be some time in view of the fact that he was still in school—and but Harold brought him up with a jerk by announcing that as soon as "you and mamma are married I'm going to out loose for myself, believe me!"

That was the beginning of the end.
Things happened with a rush from that time on. Much to Mr. Crumley's consternation, people began to ask him when it was to take place, and other questions of a similarly irritating nature. And then Mrs.
Kingsbury, profoundly agitated, informed him, in fact, she went even farther and said that she was just breaking her heart over him.

He didn't sleep a wink that night, and all the next day his mind was not concerned with mathematics.
While he couldn't forget the life, he saw how he had compromised her, still he knew enough about small town gossip to appreciate its horrors. So he made up his mind to play fair with the innocent lady; he would change boarding places and thus put a stop to all the. But when he proposed that same evening to make this gentlemanly sacrifice he discovered, to his dismay, that it was not his idea of what a gentleman should do in the circumstances.

She declared that, next to being mentioned as a correspondent in a divorce case, the most awful thing that could happen to a girl, self-respecting woman, was to be clearly dragged into court as the plaintiff in a breach of promise suit. She thought it was low and vulgar and —well, sort of grasping. Mr. Crumley felt the cold perspiration breaking out all over him. Something came up in his throat and stayed there depriving him of the power of speech.

On the other hand, she moaned, it seemed dreadful to think that the only alternative was suicide. The only consolation to be had out of suicide was the knowledge that the world always understands and sympathizes when it reads the broken-hearted farewell note the unhappy suicide leaves before he clears up the mystery of her death, so that the man she loved even with her last breath might be spared the ignominy of being locked up and tried on the charge of having murdered her.

At half past nine she warily smiled up at him and said good-by. She had decided that she could not endure the notoriety of a breach of promise suit.

"Where—where are you going?" he guessed, as she started down the front steps.

"Sh!" she whispered. "I don't want the children to suspect. Isn't it wonderful that I can be so calm, so —so peaceful about it? Good-by,
dear!—good-by!"

He sat perfectly still for many minutes after she passed out of sight, walking briskly in the direction of Main street. He seemed petrified.
Suddenly a full sense of understanding struck him like a blow. He leaped to his feet, looked about wildly, opened his lips to shout after her, and then plunged blindly down the steps. Two minutes later he dashed into Weaver's drug store. She was not there.

"Have you—has Mrs. Kingsbury been in here?" he demanded of the boy at the soda fountain. Ah, how many times had he sat happily on one of the tall stools with some bright-faced, charming girl beside him, chatting blithely.

"Yes, she bought some note paper a couple of minutes ago, professor.
She?"

"Anything else? Anything else?"
"Nope, I heard her ask Mr. Weaver if he thought 10 grains of strychnine would kill a dog, and he said it would kill an elephant."

"Yes, yes—yes, yes! What—what then?"

"Well—that was about all. Oh, yes, she said something about not having any elephant at present, and —what? Why, she went up street, towards her store, I guess."

"Five minutes later she opened her p-door a couple of inches and peered out.

"Go away!" she cried to the man outside. "Leave me alone."
He pushed his way in. The store was dark.

"Won't tomorrow morning do,
Professor?" inquired the clerk.

Mr. Crumley hesitated. A significant, terrifying sound—barely audible to Mr. Blinn but as piercing as the fire of a gatling gun to the mathematician—came up from the bottom of the steps. It was the warning of the deadly rattlesnake.

Although there was nothing written on the little pasteboard pilbox in Mrs. Kingsbury's hand to indicate his danger, nevertheless the lady shook it.

"No—no, it's got to be tonight,
Mr. Blinn," said Mr. Crumley, winning.

It was a quarter of 11 when Justice of the Peace Judge DeWitt was routed out of bed to perform a marriage ceremony. Mr. Crumley had been very successfully shanghaied for a cruise around the world.

The next day Mrs. Crumley began to talk about an eight-room apartment in the new building that was being erected on Scott street. It was then that she discovered the truth about Mr. Crumley's finances.
She confided her discovery to Harold and Clayre and began shrilly to talk about strychnine again. Mr.
Crumley, badgered by all three of them, rose temporarily to surprising heights. He said he didn't give a damn how soon she swallowed the poison, but as she had on hand a supply sufficient to kill an elephant he thought she ought to include Clayre and Harold and make a good clean job of it. It was his first and last note of defiance.

Now we come back to him on the bridge. He had taken two of his wife's tablets the night before, con-siderately leaving eight behind in case she needed them, only to find that they tasted amazingly like potash, and failed to have any effect whatsoever. He had stood in front of the mirror on his bureau waiting for the hideous risis sardonious to imprint itself upon his stiffening lips. Consultation of a treatise on poison had provided him with all the definite symptoms of approaching disolution in a case of strychnine poisoning. Falling to observe anything like the "sardonic grin" on his pallid features, he went over and laid down on the bed prepared to endure, and even to assist, the "opisthotonos." He fixed his heels firmly against the footboard, and lying flat on his back without a pillow under his head, waited for the inevitable convulsion that would end with his head and heels alone resting on the mattress, the remainder of his rigid body being bowed upward with quite a space between it and the bed. Nothing happened.

The next evening she rapped him over the head with a heavy rod of a whisk-broom. It was then that he went down to the river.

Fondling, he continued to stare at the black, almost invisible water. At last, with a long sigh, he pulled his hat down tight upon his head, placed one foot on the lower rail, gripped the upper rail with his hands, and prepared to vault over into the unknown.

A hand fell upon his shoulder. His knees gave way beneath him, and even a dollar and a half with you

Uncommon Sense

—By—
JOHN BLAKE
Blazed Trails.

THE wonder is that anyone goes wrong.
The record of thousands of years of human experience is available as a guide to the men and women of the present.

There is hardly a magazine of today which does not furnish in the biographies of the successful, inspiration for those who are beginning life.

Men who have succeeded are eager to tell how they succeeded. Most of them tell the truth about it.

How human beings have made mistakes, and how such mistakes can be avoided, is written in every history ever compiled.

Every trail is blazed, whether it be the one we ought to take or the one we ought to avoid.

Yet despite these things men, and women too, continually lose their way, continually flounder away from roads and paths, and fall worn and helpless and exhausted before life is half done.

The reason is that none of the blazed trails to success are easy.
They all lead uphill. The others are more inviting. It is pleasanter to take them.

Even when we know that if followed far enough they will lead to misery, we take them just the same, thinking we will journey a little way and come back.

But there is no coming back from Easy Streets. They are all one way throughfares.

If you are beginning life, take one of the sure trails, and follow it where it leads.

It cannot lead you wrong.
Often it will be hard going. Sometimes it will be dangerous and well nigh impassable. But it will become wider and smoother and easier to travel by and by.

Travel as light as you can. Take little with you save the equipment study has put into your brains.
Don't be discouraged if there is climbing, if there are obstacles to overcome, and rivers that must be forded or swum because of the lack of paved bridges.

The river trail is never easy at the start. But it is always marked and always known it is the right trail, because of those who have gone before to happiness and prosperity.

The blues are plain. It is your own fault if you do not follow them.

sagged limply against the rail.
Caught!

"What's the trouble, stranger?"
Inquired a voice, a low, masculine voice.

"Where—where did you come from?" chattered Mr. Crumley. "I didn't hear you."

"I've been standing here behind you for 10 or 15 minutes.
Mr. Crumley, looking over your shoulder, too, all that time. You've been figuring on jumping over there into the river, eh? Is it so bad as all that?"

"I can't discuss it with you," said
Mr. Crumley, regarding some of his dignity. "This is a purely personal affair. Please go away."

"I don't know what the trouble is, stranger," said the man in the blue coat. "It seems to me you ought to give yourself a sporting chance. How far is it down to the water?"

"About 40 feet. Have you never been in this bridge before?"

"Never. Forty feet, eh? Water pretty deep?"

"It is a matter I do not feel inclined to get huffy, pardner. Now, it strikes me that you are not giving fate much of a chance to prove to you that you are wrong in taking this step. Sometimes things turn out better than you think. Take me for instance. I've been on the point of blowing my brains out half a dozen times. I didn't do it, and here I am alive and well and as happy as a clam. I haven't a worry in the world. The only thing that troubles me is the occasional pinch of poverty—and that reminds me.
You won't need any money, or a watch, or anything like that in the place where you are going, so please hand 'em over to me. I don't know as I've ever known anything to work out so satisfactorily as this. Use it as it is up to you to stick a gun against a man's ribs to get him to loosen, or to crack him on the head, but here's an ideal situation!
I find a man getting ready to!"

"Do you mean to say that you are going to rob me?" he demanded Mr. Crumley. For the first time he turned to peer over his shoulder at the shadowy figure.

"Well, now, that's a matter I am not inclined to discuss. Put up your hands—I won't take me a second to frisk you. Then we will discuss the future. I've got a suggestion to make to you—a good sporting proposition."

"My God, don't speak to me about elephants," groaned Mr. Crumley.
"Been seeing 'em?" inquired the stranger, sympathetically. "Think twice, old scout, before you take any chances with me. Put 'em up!"

"I don't in the least mind allowing you to rob me," said Mr. Crumley, holding up his hands. "You will not find anything about me except a little loose change in my pants pocket—a dollar and a half, perhaps. As for my watch—well, I was very careful to leave everything at home that might serve to identify my body when it is found."

"Well, there's no sense in taking even a dollar and a half with you

APARTMENT LIFE

Miss Bings tries to enjoy a little jazz without losing class with her high-brow neighbors.

when you flop over into the river, is there? Better keep it in circulation.
I'd say. Quarters and dimes, I can tell by the feel of 'em. The coins jingled as they dropped into the stranger's coat pocket. You don't discuss your case. What's troubling you? Money matters? Ill health?
Disappointment in love?"

"Neither of these," said Mr. Crumley.

"You may put your hands down
now. I'm through. Are you a married man?"

"Yes—in a way."
"Long?"

"I can't remember when I was single," groaned Mr. Crumley.

"Ah, now we have it," cried the stranger, a note of satisfaction in his voice. "I feel for you, old man.
Nothing—notthing in the world—is so conducive to suicide as a hopeless state of matrimony. But why kill yourself? Why not pick up and light out—skip, beat it, leave her high and dry. That's what I do regularly. What do you gain by destroying yourself? You don't hurt her any by doing it, my friend. The chances are she'll be the happiest woman alive."

"Ah, but I gain my freedom—my freedom from her," cried Mr. Crumley, looking over the rail once more.

"Well, so does she," protested the other. "The only difference is that you'll be dead while she'll still be alive. I don't call that a very fair distribution of freedom, do you?"

"You don't understand. There is only one course open to me. Now, if you will please go away, I'll—"

"Just a second, my friend. I'm not the kind to interfere with a man when he is in such distress as you appear to be. If you feel that the only way out of your troubles is to jump into the river, why—that's all there is to it, so far as I am concerned. All I've got to say is that you ought to take a sporting chance. I've done it several times.
Once I was on the point of shooting myself. Conspicuous affliction, by the way—sort of chronic case with me.
Well, say, I why not give yourself a sporting chance, old boy? Go out and stick some one up right in front of the police station, and then hang around long enough to let the cops find out there's been a holdup. Pull your gun and open fire on your pursuers. See what I mean? I was giving myself a sporting chance. If I got away without a scratch, that was to be a sure sign that my luck had changed, and I'd be thankful
I hadn't shot myself."

"How did it turn out?" asked Mr.
Crumley, interested in spite of himself.

"Just as I thought it would. They fired a couple of dozen shots at me—and I got away. Now, you are contemplating suicide. You want to jump into the river. Why do that?
It occurred to me while I was standing here watching you—knowing all the time what was in your mind—that you ought to give yourself a chance. Why not be a sport?
Why not take a gambler's risk? The idea came to me like a flash, and I'm going to put it up to you as one sport to another. Suicide is an ugly word. It's the same thing as cowardice. Are you listening?"

"Yes—but it's no use. I am determined to end it all."

"All right, I agree to that," said the other cheerfully. "But let's do it like a gentleman. Let's do it like a sport. Here's the idea. See this top rail? It's round and it's four inches in diameter. Any school boy could walk it if it was laid on the ground.
Now, suppose you take off your shoes and get up there on that rail —I'll help you—see if you can't walk to!"

"My God!" gasped Mr. Crumley, drawing away from the railing with a shudder. "I—I couldn't do that!"

"That's just the point I make.
Supposing you do lose your balance,
you just as likely to fall in as out."

"But—I-I'd be sure to fall outward. I—I—good heaven, man, I can't bear to think of it."

"But you're thinking of jumping in, aren't you?"

MAXIMS

—OF A—Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

LOVE is the cup life holds to the lips of all, but for home the cup holds wine; for others vinegar; for a few poison.

One difference between masculine and feminine psychology is that a man does what he wants to do and hunts for justification afterward—if at all; whereas, before a woman takes a step in any direction she supplies herself with an excuse anticipatively as she tucks a powder puff into her gold meshbag.

If a husband should occasionally tell his wife that he loves her as much as ever, that she doesn't look a day older and a few similarly pleasant lies, he would establish such a reputation for truthfulness that he could get away with almost anything.

Now that the girls are bobbing their hair, do they use the time saved on its daily arrangement for the study of Greek and household economies or for the more elaborate adjustment of their complexions?

Perhaps one of the reasons why a woman rarely punishes the man she loves, no matter what he does, is that such punishment for one really does hurt the giver more than the receive, or.

Love is blind, they say—and if it were also deaf and dumb most of us would be happier.

To the eyes of the professional bachelor beauty and wit are the red rags that indicate a cargo of feminine dynamite, yet the woman who succeeds in exploding his theories of single-blessedness is usually a plain little person with just enough wit to let him do all the talking.

The number of subjects about which a man is profoundly ignorant may be at least partially estimated by the number of times he says to his wife: "No, dear, I can't explain it—you wouldn't understand."

Man may be defined as the albitious animal.

On the Way to Keeping Well

By Dr. Frederic H. Robinson.
Editor Medical Review of Reviews.

WHAT PARTICULARLY STRIKING EFFECTS ON THE HEALTH ARE THE WEARING OF HIGH-HEELED SHOES.

THERE is scarcely any one who is unaware of the fact that high-heeled shoes are injurious to health. It really requires no very high grade of intelligence to detail the following ill effects of an over-indulgence in French heeled bootery:

First, they throw the wearer out of balance and with such a destruction of equilibrium comes the menace of "turned over," ankles and strained tendons.

Secondly, they distort the carriage of the wearer. No truly graceful woman is graceful because of high heeled footwear—she is graceful because of her own physique. Compare in beauty of movement with the free swing of the savage who has never had shoes upon her feet? A beautiful carriage is an enviable gift. No young or older woman can ever keep youth in her limbs if she artificially cramps their natural play.

Among primitive peoples it was a test of grace for women to carry safely upon their heads precious vases or baskets filled with valuables.

Fourthly, the practice increases fatigue, causes ugly and painful callouses upon the sole, imperils the arch and on the whole fatally wrecks
the beauty of the foot.

Fifthly, the constant fear of "turning over" the ankle induces an unusual degree of nervousness in the wearer. And many a case of hysteria is directly traceable to this pernicious and, unfortunately, fashionable habit.

On the whole then, to wear high heels is a confession of inadequacy, and a proof that the wearer had rather be a slave to fashion than an heirless to grace.

AN AD.
When the stern-faced clock looks down
On your tousled head,
Stop a while in Storytown
Just this side of Bed.
Many wonders you'll behold—
Many splendid sights,
Piles of diamonds, heaps of gold,
Brave and gallant knights.
See the deep and shady wood Stretching far away,
Where the fair Red-Riding Hood
Met the Wolf one day.
See Bo-Peep and all her sheep,
And little Goldenhair,
Who, all alone and fast asleep,
Was found by Tiny-Bear.

See the giants, fierce and strong,
That evil deeds had done
Till Jack came merrily along
And slew them, every one.
See the little shabby mat
Where wistfully at dawn
The pretty Cinderella sat,
And tried the slipper on.

Stop awhile in Storytown,
Just this side of Bed,
While the years look kindly down
On your tousled head.
For by and by, when you shall grow
To women and to men,
The law says you shall never go To Storytown again.

White House Expression of Desire to "Do Everything

at Meeting in Chicago by Chairman Barton of the Public Group.

SESSION WITH LABOR CHIEFS TOMORROW

Head of Rail Employees' Department of Federation of Labor Calls Conference of Committee of One Hundred.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Whether the United States Labor Board shall step into the role of mediator or confine its activities to pointing out the course which the railroads of the country and their employees are expected to follow, as the result of the Labor Board decisions handed down under the transportation act, is the vital question before the Federal body this afternoon.

With every member present, Chairman Barton laid the administration's wishes before the board, which will determine a program for presentation at the conference with railroa brotherhood chiefs here tomorrow.
Chairman Barton and the two other members of the public group, G. W. Hanger and Ben W. Hooper, returned last night from Washington, where they conferred with President Harding, the Interstate Commerce Commission and Attorney-General Daugherty.

Chairman Barton brought the White House expressions of a desire
"to do everything" to avert a strike.
How the board will go about fulfilling that desire is the problem before it today.

First Summons by Board.
The board has never before summoned parties to a controversy in an effort to mediate in private conference. A number of cases have been so handled at the request of the disputants. It is pointed out that, although the transportation act did not specifically contemplate mediation of differences, the board can being a Federal body, take any steps it thinks advisable to save the country distress resulting from a rail stop.

On the other hand, the act gives the board authority to summon parties to a discussion when the board has reason to believe an order has been violated. The first such citation will be heard tomorrow, when the Pennsylvania is to appear to determine if that road has violated an order to hold certain employees' elections.

Labor Conference Tomorrow.
The board has never before possibly become a violation of a board decision. In the opinion of several members of the board, although that point has never been thoroughly tested.

Freight Reduction Plan.
Freight rate reductions approximately equivalent to the 12 per cent reduction in wages ordered last July by the Railroad Labor Board, it is
